CHRIST'S ALTERNATIVE TO COMMUNISM

By E. Stanley Jones

◆ In his travels about the world, particularly in Russia and China, Dr. Jones has come to an intensified concern about world conditions. His observations lead him to conclude that the only alternative to Communism is Christianity.

TESTAMENT OF LOVE

By Hubert L. Simpson

◆ The Bishop of London says: "There is always a great distinction in what Dr. Simpson writes and also a deep spirituality. This book displays both characteristics and I hope that a great many of all denominations, and even those of no denomination, will read it. I have been much touched by it myself."

SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS PROBLEMS OF YOUNG PEOPLE

A Handbook for Group and Individual Use

By Sidney A. Weston and S. Ralph Harlow

◆ This is a series of case studies of the important and religious problems which young people actually discuss. It is laboratory material in that the points of view arrived at are those that grew out of real group conferences.

$1.75

THE CHURCH AND SOCIETY

By F. Ernest Johnson

◆ Dr. Johnson describes the present confused teaching; discusses the social function of the church in relation to the state and the community, and delineates with admirable discrimination the place of the church and social conflict and change. He pleads for a synthesis of the individual and social gospels. His judgments are characterized by sanity, fairness and comprehensiveness.

$1.50

PSYCHOLOGY AND LIFE

By Leslie D. Weatherhead

◆ This brilliant young author, an accredited scholar in psychology, has sought to produce a book that is entertaining and yet accurate; a book which ordinary folk will read, and which will suggest to them ways of becoming masters of their lives. This new book is endorsed by two leading medical authorities.

$2.00

CUBBY RETURNS

By Frances Joyce Farnsworth

◆ To all who followed their adventures in Cubby in Wonderland, this little black bear and his wise Mommie are old friends. On this second visit to their loved Yellowstone Park, Mommie sometimes lets Cubby explore for himself. Unusual indeed is the story of what he discovers, each day something new, something beautiful. Charming told, verified as to background, and beautifully illustrated, these companion volumes are real treasures.

FICTION

Romany*By Lady Eleanor Smith*

The story of a gypsy girl who must choose between wild Romany love and the peaceful security of an English manor. 30,000 already sold in England. Its market is the great audience that made the author's Flamenco and Ballerina national best sellers and big renters.

$2.50

Blessed Is the Man*By Louis Zara*

A tremendously impressive novel of the melting pot of today by an author who knows his subject and writes of life as he finds it. This epic story of an emigrant who fights his way to success is unforgettable. The author is already known to readers of American Mercury and Esquire.

$2.50 March

Two On Safari*By George Agnew Chamberlain*

Bribed to commit a murder in the interior of Africa, an American wanderer finds himself on a safari with a beautiful English girl. This story of their remarkable adventures in the African bush has not been matched for sheer entertainment even by the author's great success White Man.

$2.00

Love Among the Ruins*By Elmer Davis*

Little novels of hard times—a dozen love stories of today—each closely packed with character and incident giving the satisfying effect of a full novel. No writer can be smarter, more modern than Elmer Davis and the brilliant writing of this volume merits his largest audience.

$2.00 March

Fugitive*By Louise Redfield Peattie*

The author, who has won brilliant success with her novels of Provence, returns now to the American scene with this powerful and provocative novel of a city's fringe, and of a woman bent on a self-destruction that threatens to involve a whole financial empire.

$2.00 February

Affair*By Emily Hahn*

This highly praised novelist has written, simply and delicately, a novel that will appeal directly to the lives of thousands of readers. It is the story of a young couple, too poor to marry, clutching at romance. Its theme, woven from life, gives it great sales and rental possibilities.

$2.00 April

Forget If You Can*By John Erskine*

An author who has established a great reputation for wit, subtlety and wisdom; a theme that involves an emancipated woman and her modern husband; result, a novel of adult love and young romance destined for big sales and rentals among modern readers.

$2.50 February

Follow the Furies*By Eleanor Carroll Chilton*

On any list in any season this distinguished novel would be a leader. It has stirred up more talk in our office than any book in thirty-five years. Follow the Furies is one of those books which, once read, can never be forgotten.

$2.50 February

Salute to Aphrodite*By Rearden Conner*

The author's Shake Hands With The Devil jolted a great public into excited enthusiasm. This new novel is no less realistic, and its frank portrayal of conditions in Ireland, which spare the feelings of neither class nor creed, is bound to arouse controversy and discussion.

$2.50 March

Golden Legend*By Isabella Holt*

A novel that blasts the golden legends surrounding the millionaire and reveals the real inheritance from the robber barons. An unusual romance of a wealthy girl who divorced public opinion to live her own life.

*The Call of the Mountain

THE CALL OF THE MOUNTAINS

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

© copyright

The Call of the Mountains. Glacier Park. Mountain-sides threaded with white, and over all the great silence of the Rockies.

If you are normal and philosophical, if you love your country, if you are willing to learn how little you count in the eternal scheme of things, go ride in the Rocky Mountains and save your soul.

There are no "Keep off the Grass" signs in Glacier National Park. If the Government had not preserved it, it would have preserved itself, but you and I would not have seen it.

Here the Rocky Mountains run northwest and southeast, and in their glacier-carved basins are great spaces, cool shadowy depths in which lie blue lakes; mountain-sides threaded with white, where, from some hidden lake or glacier far above, the overflow falls a thousand feet or more, and over all the great silence of the Rockies. Here nerves that have been tightened for years slowly relax.

Here is the last home of a vanishing race—the Blackfoot Indians. Here is the last stand of the Rocky Mountain sheep and the Rocky Mountain goat; here are elk, deer, black and grizzly bears, and mountain lions. Here are trails that follow the old game trails along the mountain

THE big novel of the Spring!

How often have you read a publisher's announcement that begins "the author's best novel since—"? This is not Edna Ferber's 'best novel' since anything, not even since SHOW BOAT or SO BIG or AMERICAN BEAUTY or CIMARRON—but the finest thing she has ever done—a book introducing a new locale, the northwoods of Wisconsin—a smashing story of action and beauty that has something great and important to say to all Americans.

PRACTICABILITY

Other People Talk About It . . .

The New Dutton Catalog has it!

This Spring we take great pleasure in introducing an entirely new type of Dutton catalog. This Spring catalog has been designed and prepared especially for book-sellers and librarians. We have followed almost exactly your suggestions, to make what you thought would be the most practical type of catalog for your use.

"In this catalog we present" . . . instead of finishing this sentence, may we urge you to send for a copy of the catalog itself, so that you can judge for yourself the quality of our Spring books? We also want you to see the special offer we make in it in connection with our older stock items. Clip and sign this ad, and mail it to us today!

AND . . . to the first hundred booksellers or librarians who apply, we offer a complimentary copy of one of our most important Spring books, SILVER COLLAR BOY by Constance Wright with illustrations by Rex Whistler. A book which we believe will be one of the big surprises of the Spring season.

This is the kind of book that is apt to be overlooked in the hurly-burly of modern fiction, but to those who are tempted by Mr. Rex Whistler's exquisitely appropriate frame to peer into this miniature of eighteenth-century life in London, we can promise that rare satisfaction which only a perfectly executed composition can give. Part legend, part pure imagination, this is the story of a lady of fashion, a young unknown artist, and a little negro slave, told against the background of the boudoirs of fashion in the year 1714—of actresses, aristocrats and love affairs of a by-gone era. In England this exquisite miniature by an American author has created the furore attending LADY INTO FOX, THE BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS REY, GOOD-BYE, MR. CHIPS, and other books of subtle originality.

Mr. Albert R. Crone,
 The R. R. Bowker Co.,
 62 West 45th Street,
 New York City.

My dear Mr. Crone:

September 19, 1934:

We are happy to tell you something concerning our recent observations about "THE BOOKS OF THE MONTH".

For a time we wondered if the "BOOKS OF THE MONTH" really did make sales for us and considered discarding the publication in favor of our own lists and personal recommendations where we could see definite results. I therefore decided to watch the "BOOKS OF THE MONTH" and I found that this fine general booklet results in sales.

You might be interested to know that recently I visited a client one Sunday afternoon for the purpose of seeing her new home. While there, the "BOOKS OF THE MONTH" was brought forward. It had been checked by the various members of the family. I asked questions concerning it and learned that the "BOOKS OF THE MONTH" is used in that home each month. Each page is checked and the book examined upon the occasion of a visit to our shop by the member of the family who is interested. It took a visit to the home to make this discovery, however. These people are regular buyers but "BOOKS OF THE MONTH" keeps them informed and paves the way for our "Sales Attack".

We are sure this experience must be duplicated in many homes where booklovers look forward to being informed concerning current publications. It is therefore our pleasure to continue distributing this fine general list of new publications.

Yours sincerely,

"BOOKS OF THE MONTH"
 keeps them informed

*By the author of
"FIREWEED"*

HARCOURT,

Mildred Walker's LIGHT FROM ARCTURUS

LAST SPRING THE PUBLICATION OF "FIREWEED," a first novel which had won the Avery Hopwood Fiction Award at the University of Michigan, introduced Mildred Walker. She was immediately recognized by a wide audience, and the sales of FIREWEED mounted throughout the season to a total of more than 5,000 copies.

SELDOM HAS THE PROMISE of a vigorous talent been so definitely and abundantly fulfilled as with the completion of Mildred Walker's second novel, LIGHT FROM ARCTURUS. The publishers unhesitatingly place it among the outstanding fiction of the spring.

IT RECALLS THE EARLY NOVELS OF WILLA CATHER in background and characterization. Beginning in Nebraska of the '80's when the second generation of pioneers were struggling to make habitable homes in the new prairie towns, the narrative comes down to the present day. It is the story of one woman's self-realization, through years of the growth of her small world, of hopes for her children, and for the larger world into which they would go. It epitomizes a rich chapter in America's history, and its absorbing story shines against a side of the Middle West that was vital, fresh, and inspiring—a different Middle West from that which existed for Sinclair Lewis to satirize.

The New England Primer

A BIBLIOGRAPHY

by Charles F. Heartman

Editor of The American Book Collector

Third Edition, authoritatively describing, locating and pricing 457 editions of the Primer, over 100 more than before listed and with fresh collations.

300 copies. Printed at Walpole Printing Office.

Price $10

Mr. Heartman's exhaustive research into the history of "The Little Bible of New England" has located and described a total of 457 editions to 1830. (Paul Leicester Ford in 1897 described only 35 editions to 1800.) The cooperation of collectors and librarians throughout the country has been freely accorded. The descriptions include the location of known copies, 915 in all, and the last recorded prices, whether at auctions or in dealer's catalogs.

YOU CAN FIX IT

An Encyclopedia of Home Repairs and Household Hints

by JOHN & ENID WELLS

A FEW OF THE QUESTIONS IT ANSWERS

Are your gas and coal bills too high?
Do your windows or drawers stick?
Is your radio "acting up"?
Does your toaster need repairing?
What can you do when the faucets leak?
Is your cellar damp?
Do your floors squeak?
Is your oven inefficient?
Could you repair your oil burner in an emergency?
Can "knocking" in radiators be stopped?
Is your vacuum cleaner unsatisfactory?
Do your doors stick or rattle?
Is your best linen scorched?
Can you repair frozen plumbing?

ONE service call saved pays for this book. In a year it will return its purchase price one hundred times over.

COMPLETE and AUTHORITATIVE

It is the first household encyclopedia to include the repair of everything in the house from cellar to roof, not forgetting all the appliances found in the modern home, from electric curling irons to air-conditioning equipment. In simple, non-technical language, the authors present expert engineering data, authoritative government material, the advice of scores of mechanics—all alphabetically arranged for instant reference.

DEW IN APRIL

by

John Clayton

An historical romance of magnificent scope set against the background of the religious 13th Century. It is a tale of piety, superstition, chivalry, cruelty and love. The author has caught completely the roughness of the period, its spiritual and physical brutality and has skillfully moulded as tender a love story as it has ever been our privilege to read. We proudly recommend this book to the reader secure in the knowledge that it will be appraised a true work of art.

IMAGINE somebody writing about Moscow the kind of book that "Washington-Merry-Go-Round" was about our own capital! Only instead of concentrating on statesmen and politicians, the center of interest here would be the everyday people of the city. And instead of intrigue and scandal, the book would revolve about the thoughts, habits, troubles, loves, ambitions, amusements, and homes of the people. Wouldn't such a book be the first real human interest book written about Russia? Well that is exactly what this book is —

MOSCOW CARROUSEL

By EUGENE LYONS

For six years Mr. Lyons was Moscow correspondent for the United Press. He was a great reporter; he was the first to interview Stalin. Now he has returned to the United States and he has put together all the impressions and recollections of the things he saw and heard there. The result is an intimate revue of life as it is now lived in that strangest and most fascinating of cities. The book is about Moscow only — not about the peasants, the steppes and the new dynamos! But the big city reflects the entire nation, Meet that city here — from Stalin and Kaganovich to the most famous soldier and the most humble child. It is an absorbing experience.

LIVERIGHT SPRING 1935 BOOKS

THE WILD EARTH'S NOBILITY

By Frank Waters 448 Pages $2.50

This epic story of the life of the Rogier family, who came from North Carolina shortly after the close of the Civil War and settled in a land very alien to them, Colorado Springs under the shadow of Pike's Peak, is a true piece of American history and a superb novel besides. March 26th.

THE SECRET ROMANCE OF JOHN PAUL JONES

By Valentine Thomson 8 vo. $3.00

The true and intimate story of Commodore John Paul Jones and Princess Anna Kourakina, taken from the archives of Paris and Russia. This absorbing story is told for the first time in this book. March 25th.

THE BODY'S RAPTURE

By Jules Romains 448 Pages $2.50

To say that this story is a pæan to the body's rapture is not enough; to say that it fulfills the secret dreams of all mankind in its portrayal of the delicate mingling of human with spiritual love is not enough; but to state that this book presents a new understanding of love transcending passion is a fact. February 14th.

A GENERAL INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

By Dr. Sigmund Freud. Translated by Joan Riviere, with Preface by G. Stanley Hall and Ernest Jones. 410 pages $3.75

This famous book was originally issued by Liveright in 1920. It has since been revised and is now issued in an entirely new translation. The clearest and most comprehensive account of the subject which has yet appeared. February 26th

In these two pages
are included titles
to suit every type of fiction buyer.

A Few Foolish Ones

by GLADYS HASTY CARROLL

Author of "As The Earth Turns"

Like that novel, this is laid in Maine, but Mrs. Carroll broadens her canvas here to cover, instead of a family, an entire community.

"Birth, marriage and death, and all that lies between, is told here as it might be recorded in a family bible!"

—Harry Hansen (April 23) $2.50

DON'T YOU WEEP, DON'T YOU MOAN

by Richard Coleman

A full-length portrait in fiction of the Charleston, S. C., negro —of the sensualities, superstitions, fantasy and fun which made up his existence. (March) $2.50

THE PARTNERSHIP, by Phyllis Bentley

Another earlier novel from the pen which gave booksellers rich profits in "Inheritance", "A Modern Tragedy", and "Carr" (May 14) $2.00

HOW LIKE AN ANGEL, by A.G. Macdonell

"Voltaire, Milt Gross and Bernard Shaw, collaborating in eight hour shifts, could scarcely equal this satire!"

—Chicago News. (Published) $2.00

NOTHING LIKE LEATHER

by V. S. Pritchett

An unusual novel by one of England's most distinguished young writers, and critics, whose work has shown exceptional ability. (May) $2.50

BARNHAM RECTORY, by Doreen Wallace

Her last season entry, "Even Such is Time" won her an immediate and enthusiastic audience among American fiction lovers.

(Published) $2.50

THE MACMILLAN CO.

The World Went Mad Land of Promise

by JOHN BROPHY

"Something of the spirit of 'What Price Glory' and 'Journey's End'; a tale both blistering and tender."—New York Times

"His indictment stands, and every reader will be quickened by it."—New York Herald Tribune. (Published) $2.50

by LEO LANIA

A vivid, stormy novel of the New Germany, hinged upon as compelling a love story as you have read in many years.

"A representation of Germany's last twenty years, written with a merciless pen."—Lion Feuchtwanger (Published)

$2.50

Time Out of Mind

by RACHEL FIELD

In each of several past years, we have given the Trade a "Once-in-a-Blue-Moon" novel. Miss Field's is it for 1935. Of the finest literary craftsmanship and with a plot which has its roots in the real American scene, it is a certain winner! The story is of Maine in the period of transition from pioneer outpost. (March) $2.50

NOT BUILT WITH HANDS,

by Helen C. White

Her "Watch in The Night" was the novel greatly preferred by the Pulitzer Prize Jury. Watch this one for similar reaction among critics. (April) $2.50

HER SOUL TO KEEP, by Ethel Cook Eliot

An advance order for 500 copies from one distributor confirmed our already healthy conviction that this dramatic college-town novel is destined for fame. (Published) $2.00

THE POACHER, by H. E. Bates

A genius for description of small things which broadly affect life, a plot filled with exciting episodes—the combined result is here. (Published) $2.50

THE PINNACLE OF GLORY,

by Wilson Wright

A re-creation in fiction form of Napoleon on St. Helena. Its historical accuracy will supplement the wide appeal of its dramatic reality. (Published) $2.50

CASTLE IN ANDALUSIA,

by Elizabeth Sprigge

A colorful romance of modern Spain, told by the young English bride of a Spanish nobleman who finds her sympathies with his peasants. (March) $2.50

THE LOADED STICK, by Naomi Jacob

The author of "Four Generations" gives us another fine story, although in entirely different vein. Here English yeomen and gypsies are protagonists. (Published) $2.00

THE MACMILLAN CO.

Dante Vivo by GIOVANNI PAPINI

The noted author of "The Life of Christ" gives us, not just another book on Dante, but a re-creation of the Dante of the Trecento. Here we have the young poet making rhymes for Beatrice, the public official, the ambassador and patriot. With unusual illustrations.

(March) $3.00

In The Shadow of Liberty by EDWARD CORSI

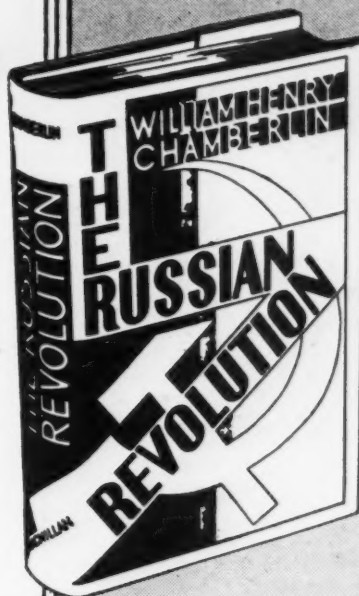

Ellis Island from the inside—the drama and comedy of the prodigious parade through the nation's greatest gateway graphically described by the former immigrant boy who, as Federal commissioner, guided the flow. With foreword by Mayor La Guardia. (Published) $3.50

The History of the Russian Revolution

by WILLIAM HENRY CHAMBERLAIN

The first comprehensive history of the world-shaking period from March 1917, when Tsarism fell. Other writers have dealt with various phases, but this work fills a long-felt gap and the public response will be commensurate. The author, through years of newspaper work in Russia, is peculiarly fitted for his task.

The New Merriam-Webster

The Greatest Single Volume Ever Published

For a hundred years, in successive editions, WEBSTER has been the foundation book. Now the greatest Webster of all has been completed—entirely remade and greatly enlarged to cover fully the vastly greater knowledge that is ours today. No other work in existence can compare with the New Merriam-Webster. It opens up for you all the cultural and practical knowledge of this eventful era. It contains more subjects than any other book ever published. It was made by the most authoritative Editorial Staff ever created.

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY Second Edition

Greatest of the Famous Merriam-Websters

William Lyon Phelps, Professor Emeritus of English, Yale University:

"The New Merriam-Webster is a marvel of the publishers' art. This is a work of which America should be proud."

Albert Bushnell Hart, Professor of Government Emeritus, Harvard University:

"I am overcome by its magnitude and completeness."

Hon. Arthur Capper, United States Senator, Topeka, Kansas:

"It is a veritable storehouse of information. I have seen no finer publication of the kind."

Ray Stannard Baker:

"I have been astonished to find what an entirely new world it reveals. It is the true abstract and epitome of the progress of the last two decades."

George Lyman Kittredge, Gurney Professor of English Literature, Harvard University:

"It is a noble volume, and I am proud to have even a slight connection with its production."

Bertram E. Packard, State Commissioner of Education, Maine:

"I have always used Webster's Dictionary and considered it standard in every respect. This New Webster is superior to anything I have seen in the way of a dictionary."

Under the leadership of William Allan Neilson, President of Smith College, as Editor in Chief, the greatest corps of editors ever organized was created to make this volume and to maintain the Merriam-Webster reputation for "supreme authority." Every technical subject has been handled by a specialist. Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard, for Law; President Joseph Sweetman Ames of Johns Hopkins, for Physics; Professor Harold H. Bender of Princeton, for Etymology, are representative of the unassailable authority back of this new Merriam-Webster.

The New Novel by

author of "Look Homeward, Angel"

Of Time and the River

The most eagerly awaited novel in five years is now in press. For sweep and richness, diversity of scene, variety of sharply individualized characters, sheer beauty of writing, there has been nothing that compares with it since "Look Homeward, Angel" which Sinclair Lewis hailed as one of the few books approaching greatness to come out of America. Its publication will answer the persistent question of thousands of impatient readers.

Want to Instal A Rental Library?

"HOW to Run a Rental Library," by Groff Conklin. The R. R. Bowker Co., New York, 1934, 136 pp.: The purpose of this book, "to outline the various methods of renting books for profit," is admirably set forth in this volume, which succinctly describes the systems now in use, their operation and promotion.

Any store considering the installation of a rental library can not afford to ignore this analysis. Such topics as the correct location of a rental library, its layout and equipment, the library stock and system, and bookkeeping methods, are among the subjects that are concisely yet thoroughly treated. The specific problems of a library within a store are also set forth.

HINDENBURG

Ludwig's HINDENBURG is not so much a narrative of what Hindenburg did from day to day, or even from decade to decade, as a presentation of the fundamental trends of his character and thinking, and their impact upon four situations in which he found himself—the Great War, the early period of the Republic, the period of his presidency, and the period of his eclipse by Hitler. It is our opinion that this biography will be one of the most discussed books to appear this year. Approximately 450 pages. Publication date, March 15. Price, $3.50

Trade Winds More Favorable

Booksellers Are Universally Cheerful, Reporting Vastly Improved Business, Due to Price Maintenance. Prospects for Spring Business Are Bright and Fair

THE MOST UNIVERSALLY CHEERFUL stack of letters we have ever received from the booksellers all over the country came in this month telling about the improvement of 1934 business over 1933, and telling a story of the best Christmas business in years. Just after Christmas we wrote to 200 booksellers asking whether business was getting better, and whether the improvement, if any, was to be ascribed to the Booksellers Code. We received 56 replies. And, as we have hinted, the reply was practically unanimous, from stores of every size and type.

There was one small shop out of 56 which reported that business for the year was unsatisfactory; but that store reported a Christmas business that was quite a bit better than last year. There was one store that reported Christmas business 100% worse than last year, but the year's business as 20% ahead. One department store in the Middle West reported business at Christmas satisfactory, though not so good as last year, but the year's business as slightly more than 20% ahead of last year. One store in the Middle West reported business at Christmas no better than last year, but the year's business as 10% ahead. Another store in New York State reported Christmas business as not so good as last year but a slight increase for the year.

With these exceptions, the chorus mounted from just plain "better," or "ahead," to "consistently better," "substantially better," "greatly in excess," "best in the last two years," "best since 1928," "best since 1930," to "best ever."

Comparing 1934 business with 1933 business, 7 stores reported an increase of between 10 and 19%; 6, an increase of from 20 to 29%; 1, an increase of 30%; 1, of 40%; and 1, of 45%. Comparing this year's Christmas business with that of last year, 1 store reported an increase of 2%; 7, an increase of from 10% to 19%; 6, an increase of 20% to 29%; 1, an increase of 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ %; 1, 35%; 1, 40%; and 1, 75%.

Forty-one booksellers attributed some part or the chief part of the improvement in business to the Code. The only bookseller, including bookstores and book departments, who questioned the benefits of the Code thought that the Code did not go far enough in regulating competition. A few booksellers qualified by saying that price cutting had never been a problem in their communities. A few booksellers qualified by saying that they felt that there had been a general improvement in business anyway. Booksellers in New York and in the neighborhood of New York were most enthusiastic about the benefits of the Code. And when we say in the neighborhood of New York, the area comprises a good many square miles.

Robert Saltmarsh of H. S. Hutchinson, in New Bedford, Mass., writes: "A very good customer of ours, with an office directly across the street from the store, came in to order a recent book of fiction. He said, without any hesitation, 'I went to —'s to get the book at the discount which we are accustomed to getting and was very much disappointed to find that I could get it just as cheap from you. This being the case, I would much prefer to get it from you, and will you order the book?' This is not as isolated a case as one might suppose with New Bedford some 200 miles away from New York. We feel strongly the maintenance of prices in the book industry is vital not only to its prosperity but to its existence."

Marion Dodd of the Hampshire Book Shop in Northampton, Mass., writes, "We can prove that the Booksellers Code has benefited the book business in Northampton by specific instances of customers who have again transferred their business from —'s to their local bookshop."

Emma Beinert of the Wide-Awake Bookshop in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., says, "We do feel that the Code benefited us. There is a large group here who we knew bought their books at —'s; they are coming in regularly and invariably refer to the bargains they used to get."

C. W. Brown of the James & Law Co. in Clarksburg, West Virginia, reports "The price cutting which had been going on before the adoption of the Code probably had not affected such a great number of our customers, but it had reached the best ones who had a habit of going to the eastern cities frequently. It is much better when you can feel quite certain that someone else is not offering new books at prices lower than we are using, and we hope that the benefits derived from the operation of the Code can be continued."

Terence Holliday of the Holliday Bookshop in New York City says, "We felt at once the effect of the price maintenance clause in the Booksellers Code, and are certain that the largest proportion of our increase is due to this single factor."

Lucy Carr of the Book Shop, Morristown, N. J.: "We do feel that the Code has been of great benefit to us. Being so near New York, we were very much bothered by price cutting. There have always been some unthinking citizens who vowed we charged more for books than the New York shops; now we are able to impress on them that we maintain publishers' prices and do not add anything."

Two letters from Atlanta, Georgia, are especially interesting. James Miller of Miller's, Inc., says, "We feel that the Booksellers Code is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to the book business, since the advent of the net price system." Rich's, a department store in Atlanta with New York affiliations, reports "I think we have benefited from the Booksellers Code in this respect—since there is no longer price cutting on new books for at least six months it gives us a better opportunity to cash in on slightly old books which come into popularity."

To return to the subject of Christmas business, nine stores mentioned that though the sales volume increased, the unit of sales was smaller, with the lower-priced books more in demand. Six stores mentioned that the unit of sale seemed to be higher, with people interested in the higher-priced books. The James and Law Co., in Clarksburg, West Virginia, wrote: "There is a noticeably better demand for the better editions, customers generally do not seem to be afraid of the relatively high priced items, while during the last two years we had noticed a very definite trend toward the books in the low price field."

The Greenwood Book Shop in Wilmington, Del., was one of the stores which reported "Sales as numerous as in the good old times but, of course, the smaller unit of sale held down the total"; but this shop goes on to point out that there were few expensive books to sell this year to customers to whom price was no objection in selecting a gift: "While there were a few five-dollar books this season, there was but one two-volume biography, and fine gift books were few and far between. This shop had a splendid sale for the Rockwell Kent 'Canterbury Tales,' and for several of the Derrydale sporting books. Among other non-fiction titles that moved rapidly were the Wells Autobiography, and Freeman's 'R. E. Lee.' Fiction proved slower than in many years past. There seems to be a growing tendency for non-fiction to sell in the fall, while fiction tends to pick up immediately after the first of the year."

Along the same lines A. Kroch, of Chicago writes: "I believe that the time is ripe for publishers to consider bringing out a few more expensive books and eventually to go back to a $5 unit on really important books, providing that not only the contents but also the physical make-up will represent real value."

Ben Abramson of the Argus Book Shop, of Chicago, observed "a renewal of interest in finely printed books and in fine bindings."

John Kidd of Cincinnati reports that "the sales units in the rare book department were very much under some of the previous years although even there we had a satisfactory season."

Christine Noble Govan, who was acting as temporary helper, at T. H. Payne, of Chattanooga, where her husband has been manager and is still absentee-manager and consultant, writes in her spirited fashion: "Thank God, the old leather-bound gift book like 'Mother,' 'Friends,' 'Happy Thoughts' is nearly extinct. I would have made a bonfire of them years ago. The buyer of this type of book is the most aggravating, destructive, tedious and time-consuming customer alive. 'They never would be missed.'"

Children's books sold very well in 16 shops, but 5 shops reported the sales this year as disappointing. Two of the 6 shops which reported the sales as disappointing mentioned the competition of the 5-and-10-cent stores. The Edward Madison Co., in Montclair, N. J., added a game section to its children's department and this about doubled the Christmas sales in the juvenile department.

Frank Clough of Fred Harvey in Kansas City, Mo., says: "We sold more children's books in 1934 than we have for the past three or four years."

Christine Govan says: "We sold lots of children's books, particularly at $2 and under. It seemed to me that we sold more good books for children and fewer than usual of the series. I think two things have helped raise the standard of children's reading—parents have become book conscious since the depression and the schools and libraries are doing great work here. My own book ('Those Plummer Children') was, of course, outstanding because of the local interest but we sold a number of Allan Dwight's 'Linn Dickson,' and the old favorites like 'Ping' and 'Frawg' and the classics. Very few of Lucy Fitch Perkins, which is unusual, and none of the books on your juvenile best seller list except one or two single copies."

"Those Plummer Children" also sold well at Stokes and Stockell in Nashville, Tenn., Elsie Stokes writes us, and so did "that real classic 'Little Era in Old Russia,' 'Linn Dickson' and 'The Courageous Heart.' " "We did not receive our 'Mary Poppins' until three days before Christmas and even so sold more than half of the 100 we bought." (Their non-fiction leader was "The Phantom Crown.")

The Booke Shop at Four Market Square in Providence, mentioned "Mary Poppins" as outstanding, "It jumped into popularity at the last minute."

The Channel Bookshop, in New York City, was one of the shops which found "children's books not quite so popular as usual, but 'Mary Poppins' was at the head of the list of those that did sell."

At the Hampshire Bookshop, in Northampton, the best selling juveniles were: "The Last Pirate," "Sandra's Cellar," "Midget and Bridget," "Timothy" and Van Loon's "Wide World Game."

"Wine from These Grapes" was the Christmas best seller at The Student Book Shop in Lynchburg, Va.

"Of course," writes Marion Bacon, of the Vassar Cooperative Bookshop, "our outstanding title was 'Wine from These Grapes' of which we sold 155 copies, 'Mary Peters' came next with 95 copies to its credit. Then 'Lost Horizon' with 70 copies—but we are on our second 25 of this title since Christmas. Another book we did well with, considering the price, was 'Wild Flowers.' We sold 25 copies."

Gundor Svendsen, of Mandel Brothers, in Chicago, volunteers: "Alexander Woollcott certainly eclipsed the adult field both with his own book, 'While Rome Burns' and his recommendations 'Good-bye, Mr. Chips,' 'Lost Horizon,' 'Musa Dagh' and 'Little Orvie.'"

In conclusion, we quote Elise Noyes, of the Stamford Book Store: "Altogether, thanks to the public, the publishers, the jobbers, the Code, and the radio broadcasts, we sold some books!"

We received 56 replies to a letter sent to 200 booksellers—an excellent response—and every reply but one told of a better year's business in 1934 than in 1933—up to 40% better. Only three stores reported business at Christmas as no better than last year and 53 reported a better Christmas business by from 2% to 75%. Forty-one booksellers mentioned the Booksellers Code as playing some part or the chief part in the improved state of business. We think that this means that when the travelers go out with their spring lists they will find the trade in the most cheerful frame of mind since the late depression.

Spring Promotion Plans

A Digest of the Promotion Schedules of Leading Publishers Reveals an Increase in Activity in the Trade

D. Appleton-Century

APPLETON-CENTURY REPORTS a very long and unusually strong spring list. There will be two strong campaigns on groups of titles. The second set of the Tired Business Man's Library, made up of five new mystery and detective novels by well-known authors, will be advertised in large space in the New York Times Book Review and the New York Herald Tribune Books as well as in the New York daily papers, and there will be a run of advertisements in the Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Pacific Coast papers. Imprint circular material and posters will be available. The six-volume Thorndike Library of children's books, edited according to his famous word-lists by Edward L. Thorndike, will be given a strong inclusive advertising and promotion campaign in educational and parental fields. The advertising schedule will include Parents Magazine, National Parent-Teacher, Child Study Magazine, the Horn Book and leading educational journals as well as the Times Book Review, Herald Tribune Books and other book review sections. There will be unusual circular material and posters for dealers.

Plans for individual titles include:

"Now We Set Out" by Susan Ertz—Comprehensive newspaper advertising in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other cities as well as in the magazines. Imprint postcards and poster available.

"Labor, Industry and Government" by Matthew Woll—Extensive publicity to be supplemented by advertising in the labor, financial and commercial press. Poster and imprint circulars available.

The following titles will receive full promotion campaigns, including repeated advertising in New York Times, Herald Tribune and Saturday Review, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia newspapers and the magazines. Posters will be available as well as imprint material.

"The Lark Legacy" by Alice Hegan Rice—Special local promotion in Kentucky.

"The Yellow Diamond" by George Gibbs—Local promotion in Philadelphia.

"Good Old Yesterday" by Charles Hanson Towne—Special New York promotion.

"The Willoughbys" by Alice Brown—Local New England promotion.

"Less Than Kin" by Charles Caldwell Dobie—Local promotion in California.

"Black to Nature" by Octavus Roy Cohen—Local promotion in Birmingham, Alabama.

"Morning in Gascony" by Jay William Hudson, "Love and the Lieutenant" by Robert W. Chambers, "The Guests Arrive" by Cecil Roberts, "The Julius Cæsar Murder Case" by Wallace Irwin, "Seven Poor Men of Sydney" by Christina Stead, and "And Mr. Wyck Bond" by W. B. Maxwell will also receive full promotion campaigns.

"Samuel Gridley Howe" by Laura E. Richards will be published on the author's 85th birthday, February 27th, with advertising and extensive publicity emphasizing the fact.

Special emphasis in advertising will be given three books on the Far East: "The Case for Manchoukuo" by George Bronson Rea, "Son of Heaven" by Princess der Ling and "Confucianism and Modern China" by Sir Reginald Johnston.

There will be advertising in nature magazines and special imprint material for "A Guide to Bird Songs" by Aretas A. Saunders and "Wild Birds at Home" by Francis Hobart Herrick. Extensive advertising in connection with the fishing and travelling seasons will be given "To Nova Scotia" by T. M. Longstreth.

Blue Ribbon Books

Three or four back cover ads in the Times and Tribune book sections will feature the Blue Ribbon list, including such books as:

"Wellington" by Philip Guedalla—Five-color cut-out poster, 22" x 28", motion picture stills and other movie tie-up material. Publishers suggest checking with motion picture houses for release date of "The Iron Duke" starring George Arliss as Wellington, in order to plan simultaneous windows featuring "Wellington" and the Arliss autobiography, "Up the Years from Bloomsbury."

"Lives of a Bengal Lancer" by F. Yeats-Brown (motion picture edition)—Five-color poster, 22" x 28". The picture cost more than $1,000,000 to make and will be extensively promoted.

"The Lindbergh Crime" by Sidney B. Whipple—This will be published immediately following the verdict in the current trial. Window card, 11" x 14". Publishers suggest special promotion in small towns where full story has never been carried in papers.

"The World-Wide Illustrated Encyclopedia"—Large triple-wing display poster with slots for the two volumes. Imprinted circulars. Large national advertising campaign.

Coward-McCann

Special promotion and advertising for:

"Turkey in the Straw" by MacKinlay Kantor—Kantor will be on a lecture tour through the Middle West in February and March. Indianapolis, March 2nd; Iowa City, March 5th and 6th; Grand Rapids, March 9th, and other cities not yet definite.

"O, Chataqua," by Thomas Duncan—First novel. Promotion includes many reading copies to booksellers.

Doubleday, Doran

First line, national advertising including copy in Times Book Review, Herald Tribune Books, Saturday Review and daily papers in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Los Angeles, St. Louis and other big cities on:

"Come and Get It" by Edna Ferber—Special advertising in Detroit, Cleveland and Milwaukee to tie up with Wisconsin locale. Imprinted post cards, advance poster with sales manual for floor clerks on reverse, and display poster available. Five other Ferber titles to be republished, with colorful booklet "Boxing the Compass for America" available.

"Woman in Love" by Kathleen Norris—National advertising drive to continue all

Blue Ribbon offers an attractive cut-out poster in color, tying up "Wellington" with George Arliss' movie "The Iron Duke." After the poster has been used in the window, the portrait panel can be broken away, leaving a counter card spring emphasizing that this is Mrs. Norris's 50th novel. Imprinted postcards and biographical book lists available.

"Men Never Know" by Vicki Baum—Special Pacific Coast campaign.

"The Cluck Abroad" by Tiffany Thayer—Colorful poster in style of Steele Savage jacket.

"The American Diplomatic Game" by Drew Pearson and Constantine Brown—Wide attention from the press. Circulars, small window cards available.

"The Blue Eagle from Egg to Earth" by Hugh S. Johnson—Specimen page will go in every D. D. non-fiction best seller until publication date, March 22nd. Posters, postcards and dummy books for writing up advance orders available.

"Personal History" by Vincent Sheean—Special advertising in Atlantic Monthly where part of it ran serially.

"Francis I" by Francis Hackett—Four-color poster from jacket.

"Gerald: A Portrait" by Daphne du Maurier—Splash theatrical advertising. Book is a biography of Gerald du Maurier, the actor.

"If My Memory Serves; Memoirs of Sacha Guitry"—Special theater promotion.

"For Authors Only" by Kenneth Roberts—$3,000 in advertising for this book and to keep four volumes of Chronicles of Arundel going.

"Hasta la Vista: Or a Postcard from Peru" by Christopher Morley—Saturday Review, Sunday and daily paper campaign.

Three plays, "Point Valaine" by Noel Coward, "Escape Me Never" by Margaret Kennedy and "Jayhawker" by Sinclair Lewis and Lloyd Lewis, will be advertised in daily papers and Stage.

Four books will receive daily book page promotion with stress on earlier titles by the same authors:

"We Are Betrayed" by Vardis Fisher—New poster on this and earlier titles. Continuous promotion in Saturday Review.

"This Was Ivor Trent" by Claude Houghton—There will also be a reissue of "I Am Jonathan Scrivener."

"The Time is Ripe" by Walter Greenwood.

"Grey Granite" by Lewis Grassic Gibbons.

Three first novels will receive generous backing: "The Pumpkin Coach" by Louis Paul, 1934 O. Henry Memorial Award winner, "Out of That Dream" by Katherine Newborg, and "Japonica Grove" by Mary Barrow Linfield. The latter will have special promotion in Atlanta and New Orleans.

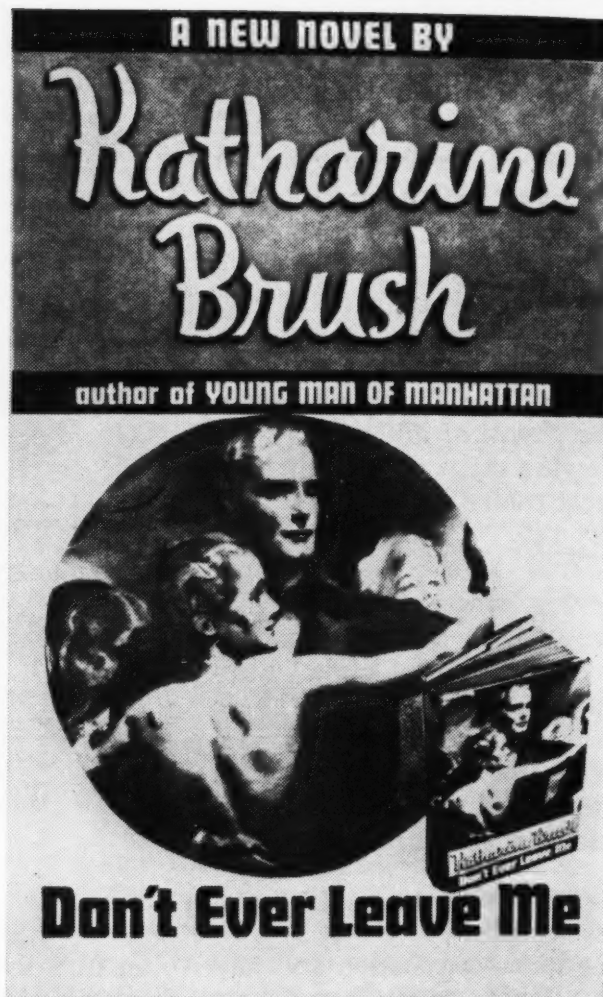

Dodd, Mead & Co.

Dodd, Mead expects to put continued and heavy promotion behind H. V. Morton's "In the Steps of the Master" published before Christmas. Among the spring books, Agatha Christie's "Death in the Air" will be well advertised and will have an elaborate poster. A book that Dodd, Mead expects big things of is "Father Abraham" by W. G. Hardy. Promotion plans haven't yet been announced, but they will be elaborate. For the "Home Book of Quotations" there is a new printing of the 16-page brochure, and a small circular for bookstore distribution.

E. P. Dutton & Co.

Dutton's most elaborate special campaign will be on "Biology for Everyman." It will be extensively advertised in daily and weekly papers and in the magazines. Circulars and posters available.

Continued promotion throughout the spring season in all the usual media will be given the following books with an initial ap-

Two-color postcards modeled after the jacket of Katharine Brush's new novel are part of a widespread promotion program propriation of $1,000 to $2,500 which also have imprinted circulars and a poster:

"Melissa Starke" by Annulet Andrews (guaranteed and fully protected), "Silver Collar Boy" by Constance Wright, "Jesus" by Edmond Fleg, "Fifty Years a Surgeon" by Robert T. Morris, M.D. and "Vitality" by Boris Sokoloff (republished with new jacket).

Also given a $1,000-$2,500 initial appropriation are "Barry Scott, M.D." by Rhoda Truax, "That Fellow Perceval" by Anne Green, "The Hill of Lies" by Heinrich Mann, "Nineveh House" by Diana Patrick, "One Breath" by Patrick Carleton (guaranteed and fully protected), "The High Mettled Racer" by Ernest Lewis, a new novel by Ethel Boileau, "Small Town Girl" by Ben Ames Williams, "Making Our Minds Behave" by William S. Walsh, M.D., "A Witness Through the Centuries" by Dr. Reginald Hegy, "The Man on the Barge" by Max Miller, "The Wizard of Monte Carlo" by Count Egon Corti, "Spanish Raggle-Taggle" by Walter Starkie and "Southeast of Zamboanga" by Vic Hurley.

A special promotion plan is being worked out for the new "Temple Shakespeare" which is being brought out in a new format designed under the general direction of Eric Gill, who also designed the bindings and the jackets.

"The New Universal Dictionary" reissued at $7.50 will be promoted as a special merchandizing item with special discounts for those stores that will promote it in a thorough way.

Farrar & Rinehart

Five books have been picked by Farrar & Rinehart for nationwide promotion and displays:

"The Autobiography of John Hays Hammond"—Full page in the Times. Extensive magazine and daily paper advertising. Two circulars, one 2-page for general trade distribution, one 8-page booklet for distribution to the trade and very special mailings by the trade. Three-fold poster, 18" high will be available.

"Don't Ever Leave Me" by Katharine Brush—Full page in the Times Book Review and nationwide newspaper space daily and Sundays. Lithographed poster in two or three colors of the McClelland Barclay painting used in the Cosmopolitan serial. Two-color post cards. Cooperative advertising will be undertaken in any town which has enough copies to warrant a campaign.

"The Camberwell Beauty" by Louis Golding—Extensive daily and Sunday advertising throughout the country. Cut-out displays for larger stores and poster taken from the jacket.

"Cell 202—Sing Sing" by Warden Lewis E. Lawes—Large advertising appropriation for magazine and newspaper space. Folding two-color display poster representing cell with cut-out bars.

"South" by Frederick

Wright—To be published June 26th. "Anthony Adverse" was published June 26, 1933, "Stars Fell on Alabama" on June 26, 1934. Extensive advertising and plenty of display material with details not yet available.

Other books on the F. & R. list picked for special promotion are:

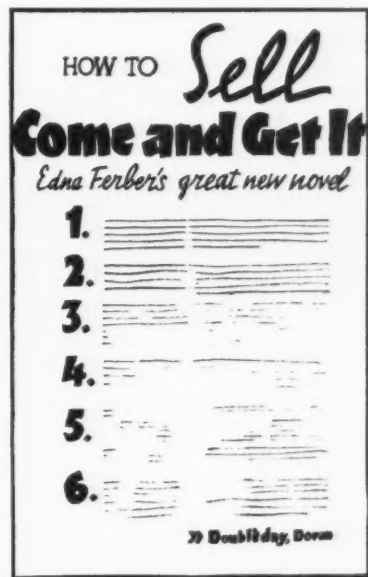

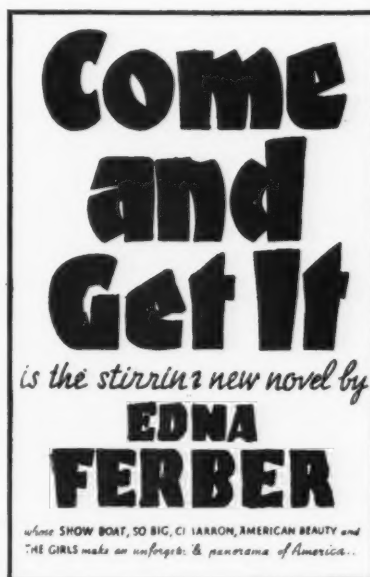

"One Light Burning" by R. C. Hutchinson—Advertising. Lynd Ward poster will be available.

"Ripeness is Ali" by Eric Linklater.

"The Motives of Nicholas Holtz" by Thomas Painter and Alexander Laing—To be advertised much the same way as "The Cadaver of Gideon Wyck." Four-page circular available for trade use, explaining how the book was written, using the jacket as the first page.

Circulars are available on such very special books as "Modern Motherhood" by Claude Edwin Heaton, M.D., "The Jewish Caravan: Great Stories of Twenty-Five Centuries" and "Patria Mia: The Life Story of Judge Salvatore Cotillo."

Jacket posters for rental library use have been made for "The American Family" by Faith Baldwin, "The Road to the Left" by Clara Wallace Overton, "Modern Lady" by Grace Perkins and "Wild Pastures" by Rex Beach.

These illustrations show the preliminary sketches for the front and back of a three-color poster for the new Edna Ferber novel. The left-hand sketch is for the front of the poster. The right-hand sketch shows the reverse, which will carry a list of sales-helps for clerks in the store. Other promotion material is available from Doubleday, including a booklet about five of Edna Ferber's earlier books

Greenberg

The leader on the Greenberg spring list is "Henry," a book of cartoons. There will be a widespread trade and consumer advertising campaign and cooperative publicity from King Features which syndicate a "Henry" cartoon strip in newspapers nationally, and the George Borgfeldt Co. which has put a "Henry" doll on the market and is planning a whole series of "Henry" toys. Later in the year "Henry" will appear in an animated movie.

Harper & Bros.

Since 1935 marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain, a centennial celebration is being planned which promises to be one of the country's most important literary events. Harper's says it will probably be the biggest single piece of book promotion of the year, going into all sorts of ramifications and selling many thousands of Mark Twain books through the bookstores. Exhibits will be held in libraries throughout the country; schools, colleges, and literary groups will take part in commemorative exercises; tremendous space in magazines and newspapers will be devoted to the life and work of Mark Twain, and radio programs and moving pictures will be devoted to the same subject. There will be a series of centennial dinners in important cities throughout the country. Early in the year Harper's will announce Centennial Editions of Mark Twain's works.

"Dickens" by André Maurois—Important initial announcements in Times Book Review, Herald Tribune Books, American Mercury, Scribner's and Harper's. Intensive daily paper follow-up campaign.

"The Coming American Fascism" by Lawrence Dennis—Regular advertising campaign plus direct mail campaign to thousands of people interested in politics and economics.

"After All" by Elsie De Wolfe—Large initial announcements in Times Book Review, Books, all important monthly magazines and daily Herald Tribune and Times. Extensive follow-up campaign in New York papers.

"The Bachelor Prince" by Frazier Hunt—Extensive advertising stressing the fact that this is the first intimate picture of the Prince of Wales. Publicity campaign will be aimed at women's market.

"The Man Who Had Everything" by

Louis Bromfield—Heavy advertising campaign continuing steadily into summer months. Large initial announcements in New York dailies, Times Book Review, Books, Harper's, American Mercury, Atlantic, Scribner's and Forum. Poster available.

"No Quarter Given" by Paul Horgan—Heavy initial advertising in all national media and New York newspapers, followed by barrage in dailies.

"Honey in the Horn" by H. L. Davis—Large initial advertising appropriation.

"Thunder Mountain" by Zane Grey—Advertising in national media and newspapers throughout the country.

"Heaven's My Destination" by Thornton Wilder—National advertising well into the summer.

Houghton Mifflin

Houghton's spring fiction leader will be "Green Light" by Lloyd C. Douglas, with an appropriation of $7,500 for the first eight weeks and a follow-up campaign to be announced later. There will be a full page announcement in the Times Book Review and continuing advertising in the New York Herald Tribune and World-Telegram, Boston Transcript and Herald, San Francisco Chronicle and Los Angeles Times, the Christian Science Monitor and ten religious periodicals. Three posters will be available: a giant poster, a standard size poster in full color and a portrait poster of the author; and imprint circulars. There will also be a special appropriation for dealers' cooperative advertising.

Large special promotion campaigns will be given "The Grass Grows Green" by Hortense Lions (poster available), "The Road to War: America 1914-1917" by Walter Millis, "The Wolf at the Door" by Robert Francis, "The Autobiography of Montaigne" edited by Marvin Lowenthal, "Vidocq: The Personal Memoirs of the First Great Detective" edited by Edwin Gile Rich, "Time Past: Memories of Proust and Others" by Marie Scheikevitch, "Greenwich Village, 1920-1930" by Caroline Ware, "Early American Books and Printing" by John T. Winterich, "Walls Against the Wind" by Frances Park, "Sentenced to Life" by Mary Agnes Hamilton, "Indian Gods and Kings" by Emma Hawkrige, "A History of Europe" by H. A. L. Fisher, "Breeding Profitable Dairy Cattle" by E. Parmalee Prentice, "Where Nothing Ever Happens" by Lee Shippey, "The Square Shooter" by William MacLeod Raine and "Sinbad the Soldier" by P. C. Wren (poster available).

Group advertising will be done for adventure stories including "Square Shooter," "Trail of the Macaw" by Eugene Cunningham, "Sinbad the Soldier" and "Beyond the Desert" by Eugene Manlove Rhodes.

Marshall Jones Co.

Promotional efforts will be concentrated on "Convictions and Controversies" by Ralph Adams Cram. There will be a two-color poster and imprinted circulars. Advertising will appear in the Wilson Bulletin, New York Times, Commonweal and The Living Church.

Claude Kendall & Willoughby Sharp

Small posters will be available in quantity for the following books: "Gallows' Seed" by Princess Paul Troubetzkoy, "John Lillibud" by F. G. Harrell, "Dark Dame" by Wilson Collison, "Elizabeth, Empress of Austria," by Maureen Fleming and "A Torch to Burn" by Alan Lampe. Special promotion with large posters available will be given "Dew in April" by John Clayton.

Alfred A. Knopf, Inc.

One of Knopf's most important spring titles is "Cast Down the Laurel" by Arnold Gingrich, which will be extensively advertised in Esquire, of which Gingrich is editor, as well as the quality magazines and other local and national media. There are available 125,000 three-color, varnished post cards for distribution by booksellers, and a photographic poster.

"Road of Ages" by Robert Nathan—Extensive advertising in Times Book Review, Books, quality magazines and other media. Color posters available.

"Another Caesar" by Alfred Neumann—Heavy advertising in all national media and New York newspapers. Poster and circulars available.

Heavy promotion, with the details yet unavailable, will be given "Shining and Free" by G. B. Stern, "Restless Days" by Lilo Linke and "The Hangover Murders" by Adam Hobhouse.

CHAP 8

This illustration was made from the original sketch of one of Herbert Roesse's drawings for "Ernestine Takes Over" (Morrow). The drawing will be used on posters

J. B. Lippincott Co.

Light fiction and mystery titles will be advertised in Herald Tribune Books, Times Book Review and space in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia newspapers. More important non-fiction titles will be advertised in these media with the addition of the New York daily papers. Cards and circulars will be available on the more important books. Special promotion for mystery titles will be secured through $7,500 prize offered in conjunction with Harrap's, Mystery Magazine and London Daily Mail.

Lippincott is planning monthly window display contests with prizes for booksellers.

Longmans, Green & Co.

"Queen Victoria" by E. F. Benson is Longmans' leading non-fiction title. It will be advertised in the Times Book Review, Atlantic Monthly and the Saturday Review. Three color, panel poster, 24" x 18", available. The leading fiction title is "Next Time We Live" by Ursula Parrott, now running in McCall's as "Say Goodbye Again." Promotion will parallel that used for "The Tumult and the Shouting." A movie version is shortly to be released.

"The Mystery Chef's Own Cook Book"—First class mail letters to the Mystery Chef's enormous correspondence urging correspondents to buy the book at their local bookstore will be continued. The Mystery Chef will return to the air on a complete national sponsored hook-up some time this spring. Poster available.

"What Manner of Love" by Rita Weiman—Theater angle will be stressed.

"The Popular Practice of Fraud" by T. Swann Harding—Special circulars available.

Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

General plans call for increased use of space in leading magazines such as Atlantic Monthly, Harper's and Parents', and for equal or increased use of space in Times Book Review, Books and other newspapers.

"Alice Foote MacDougall's Cook Book"—Imprinted circulars available.

"The Fun of Having Children" by Katharine Seabury—Four-page circular available.

"Portrait of the Artist's Children" by Edward Charles—Limited appropriation for co-operative advertising.

"Bobby Goes Riding" by Dorothy Walter Baruch—Four-page imprinted circular available which includes copy on "Our Planet the Earth" and "The Book of Puppets."

The Macaulay Co.

Special emphasis and extra advertising appropriations will be given to "Paprika" by Erich von Stroheim, "Flight South" by Charles Grayson, "This New Madness" by Bertrand Josephs, "I Wasn't Born Yesterday" by Allen Rivkin and Leonard Spigelgass, "Man Laughs Back" by Tay Garnett, "A Lover Would Be Nice" by F. Hugh Herbert and "Lovers Cry for the Moon" by Evans Wall. Posters on the novels to be published in February, March and April are being prepared. They will consist of jackets mounted on backgrounds illustrative of five types of books, romance, sophisticated novels, serious fiction, mystery and western, designed by Michael Gross.

Robert M. McBride & Co.

New posters and circulars are available for the McBride Dollar Travel Books. Circulars are available for "Assault on Everest" by Hugh Rutledge, "Privileged Characters" by M. R. Werner, "The Road to Shanghai" by Henry Champly and "Your New Baby" by Linda McClure Woods. Unique photographs are available for "Heroes and Assassins" by Stoyan Christowe. Mr. Christowe is photographed with some of the Macedonian terrorists who furnished him material for his book. One of these terrorists is the man who assassinated King Alexander and Prime Minister Barthou.

Julian Messner, Inc.

"Cross Roads of the Caribbean Sea" by Hendrik de Leeuw—Intensive promotion with advertising in metropolitan newspapers and by circular, tying up with increasing flow of travelers to the West Indies.

"Home Decoration" by Ross Stewart and John Gerald—Special advertising in magazines. Circular available.

Regional interest will be found in "That Bennington Mob" by Henry Barnard Safford (Vermont) and "Navy Landing" by L. J. Stanton (San Pedro, Calif.).

William Morrow & Co.

A steady drive on "Lost Horizon" by James Hilton will be continued through the spring with $2,000 already appropriated for the month of January. Expenditure through June will probably total $7,500.

"National Velvet" by Enid Bagnold—National advertising starting in March will run to at least $2,500.

"The Corpse in the Green Pajamas" by R. A. J. Walling—Intensive campaign with appropriation of more than $1,000.

"Ernestine Takes Over" by Walter Brooks—Extensive advertising. Special displays using Herbert Roesse's drawings for the book.

"Sex and Temperament" by Dr. Margaret Mead—Extensive campaign starting in April and running through the entire year.

"The Case of the Counterfeit Eye" by Erle Stanley Gardner—Extensive campaign.

"Albert, King of the Belgians" by Charles D'Ydewalle—Will be promoted as Morrow's spring non-fiction leader.

W. W. Norton Co.

Three books on the Norton list will be given especially heavy promotion this spring, "Farewell to Revolution" by Everett Dean Martin, "The Tinkling Symbol" by Phoebe Atwood Taylor and "Doctor Mallory" by Alan Hart. Wide advertising will also be given "The Enjoyment of Literature" by Elizabeth Drew, "Genetics" by H. S. Jennings, and "The Eligible Bachelor" by Humphrey Pakington. A dark horse is "Controlling Depressions" by Paul Douglas.

Oxford University Press

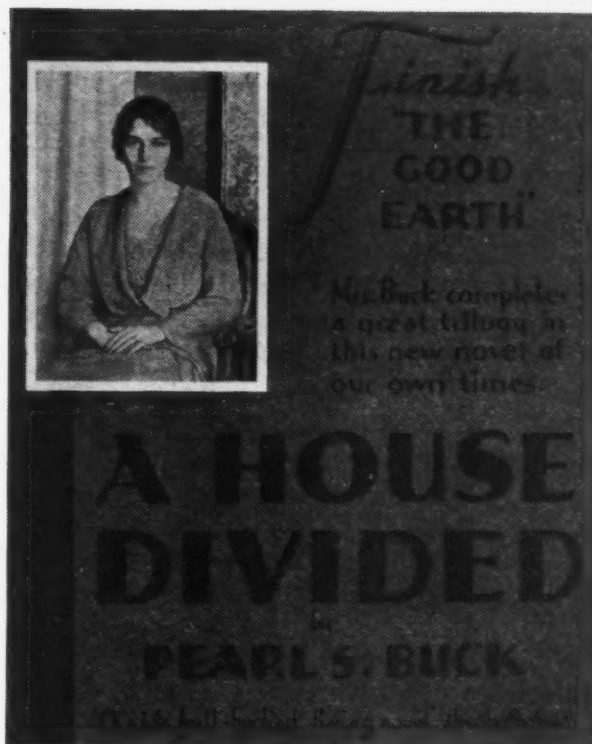

The general Oxford list will be advertised in the quarterlies and the quality group magazines. Advertising for prominent books of the late fall and Christmas season will be continued in the Times, Herald Tribune and Saturday Review, and the same media will be used for announcing spring titles. Special advertising on art books will appear in Parnassus, the American Magazine of Art, etc., and on books on world affairs in Current History, Foreign Affairs, etc. Religious titles will receive special promotion in the religious magazines. Special promotion on "Anchor Contract Bidding" will begin in Los Angeles and later circularization will cover the entire country. The leading spring trade book, "S. O. S. to the Rescue," by Karl Baarslag will be widely advertised in Atlantic seaboard newspapers and the quality magazines. Continued magazine advertising will be carried through the spring on the "Oxford English Dictionary."

G. P. Putnam's Sons

The most comprehensive campaign Putnam's has attempted on a fiction title for several years will be given Thomas Boyd's "In Time of Peace" with special advertising in the daily and Sunday Times and Herald Tribune, the New York World-Telegram, Chicago Tribune, Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, Scribner's and the Saturday Review. Other titles will be given extensive promotion in the leading magazines and newspapers.

Reynal & Hitchcock

The initial appropriation of more than $2,000 for "A House Divided" by Pearl S. Buck will be expanded in proportion with sales. Advertising includes space in Times, Herald Tribune, Saturday Review, Atlantic

Reynal & Hitchcock's poster for "A House Divided" has a good catch-line designed to promote Mrs. Buck's earlier novels Monthly, and Harper's. Three-color easled window card, 14" x 22" available.

"Mr. Finchley's Holiday" by Victor Canning—Large initial space in Times and Herald Tribune followed by increased appropriation if book catches on.

"The Autobiography of George Washington" edited by Edward C. Boykin—Special promotion among patriotic societies and collectors of Americana. Washington's Birthday promotion.

"Second Growth" by Arthur Pound—Advertising campaign comparable to that for "Once a Wilderness." Substantial space for both titles in Times and Herald Tribune. Regional promotion suggested in Michigan. Poster available.

"Shepherdess of Sheep" by Noel Streatfield—Substantial national advertising with appropriation second only to "A House Divided."

"War" by Wickham Steed—Large space scheduled for Times, Herald Tribune, New Republic and Nation.

"Unrolling the Map: The Story of Exploration" by Leonard Outhwaite—Advertising in Times, Herald Tribune, scientific journals and boys' magazines. Originals of the Gordon Grant illustrations and of the maps will be available.

Charles Scribner's Sons

Scribner's considers its 1935 spring list the strongest in many years and will back such titles as "Of Time and the River" by Thomas Wolfe, the two concluding volumes of "R. E. Lee," "Feliciano" by Stark Young, Maude Adams' autobiography, "The One I Knew Least of All," and Robert Briffault's "Europa" to the limit in leading book supplements and magazines. Advertising, circular material and posters will be comprehensive.

Simon & Schuster

The spring leader on the Essandess list is "Story of Civilization, Part One—Our Oriental Heritage" by Will Durant, which will be advertised very heavily in nearly all the New York newspapers and national media. Window cards and circulars for imprint will be available.

Heavy advertising is scheduled for:

"Ships" by Hendrik Van Loon—Window cards and probably circulars will be available.

"My Old World" by Abbé Dimnet—Window card available.

"Farewell to Fifth Avenue" by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.—Window card available, S. & S. will probably offer 50-50 advertising tie-ups to dealers.

Other books to be given extensive advertising and promotion are "Fang and Claw" by Frank Buck, "Art of Relaxation" by Walter B. Pitkin, "Art of Happiness" by John Cowper Powys, "Moods" by Theodore Dreiser and "The Primrose Path" by Ogden Nash. Publicity pranks are on the fire for "What Shall We Name the Baby?", "The San Luca," "I Wish I'd Said That!" and "The Diary of Our Own Samuel Pepys" by Franklin P. Adams.

Fiction titles, including "The Barbarians" by Virginia Faulkner, "Memory of Love" by Bessie Breuer and Tess Slesinger's short stories, will be backed by the same type of advertising given "Now in November" and "The Unpossessed."

Harrison Smith & Robert Haas, Inc.

Smith & Haas has four spring leaders, all of which will have large appropriations for newspaper and magazine advertising:

"The Royal Way" by André Malraux—Imprinted postcards available.

"Claudius the God and His Wife Messalina" by Robert Graves—Poster and imprinted postcards available.

"Pylon" by William Faulkner—Special advance poster now being sent out with top part soliciting orders for first edition which may be torn off on publication date.

"The Island" by Claire Spencer—Promotion plans not yet formulated.

A large publicity campaign is already under way for "Talk United States!" by Robert Whitcomb.

Of special interest to the Pacific Coast is "San Francisco and the Golden Empire" by Basil Woon. Promotion efforts will be concentrated on the Coast and the author will be available for autographing parties. In addition, big tie-ups have been arranged with advertising organizations on the coast.

University of Chicago Press

The University of Chicago Press has an educational newspaper The Practice of Teaching issued free, twice a year, as promotion. Its leading story in the February issue, prepared for the National Education Association meeting in Atlantic City in February, will be a story about "The Chicago College Plan" by Chauncey S. Boucher, which should receive considerable publicity. Robert A. Millikan's "Electrons (+ and -) Protons, Photons, Neutrons and Cosmic Rays" is being given some trade promotion with space in the Times Book Review, Science, and The Review of Scientific Instruments, as well as direct mail promotion. "God and the Social Process" by Louis Wallace will be advertised in the Times Book Review, Books, the Survey Graphic, and the Christian Century.

Vanguard Press

There will be strong newspaper and magazine advertising for "Judgment Day" by James T. Farrell, the concluding volume of the Studs Lonigan trilogy, and a poster will be available. A campaign beginning in the Sunday newspapers is planned for "Star of Empire" by Grant Lewi, and a heavy appropriation has been made for Donald Henderson Clarke's new novel "Kelly" which returns to the scene of "Louis Beretti." Persistent advertising will be continued for "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs" and "Skin Deep."

Viking Press

Continued advertising on two big 1934 titles, "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh" and "While Rome Burns" will be carried through the spring season. The former will have a campaign beginning with full pages in the Times and Herald Tribune book sections and large space in the dailies and magazines, while a new cartoon campaign has been started on the latter.

A unified program has been laid out for the new books, playing up Viking's tenth anniversary year and giving each of the following books its full amount of attention:

"The Black Consul" by Anatolii Vinogradov—Display material and reading copies available.

"He Sent Forth a Raven" by Elizabeth Madox Roberts—Posters and portraits of the author available.

"Torch-Bearers" by René Fülöp-Miller—$2,500 campaign, posters available.

"A Man Called Cervantes" by Bruno Frank—$3,000 initial appropriation, show-cards available.

"Tools of Tomorrow" by J. N. Leonard—Special trick displays including models of new inventions.

"Catherine, The Portrait of an Empress" by Gina Kaus—Sensational advertising campaign and elaborate posters.

Whittlesey House

Generous list advertising is planned in the Times and Herald Tribune Book sections and in page ads in Harper's, Atlantic Monthly, and Yale Review, as well as space in the Saturday Review.

"Capitalism Carries On: The American Way," by Walter B. Pitkin, will have extensive announcement in New York, Chicago and Boston papers followed by local advertising in other cities if sales warrant. Poster available.

"Boss Rule: Portraits in City Politics" by J. T. Salter, will have special advertising in New York and Philadelphia because of special Philadelphia interest in the book. Poster available.

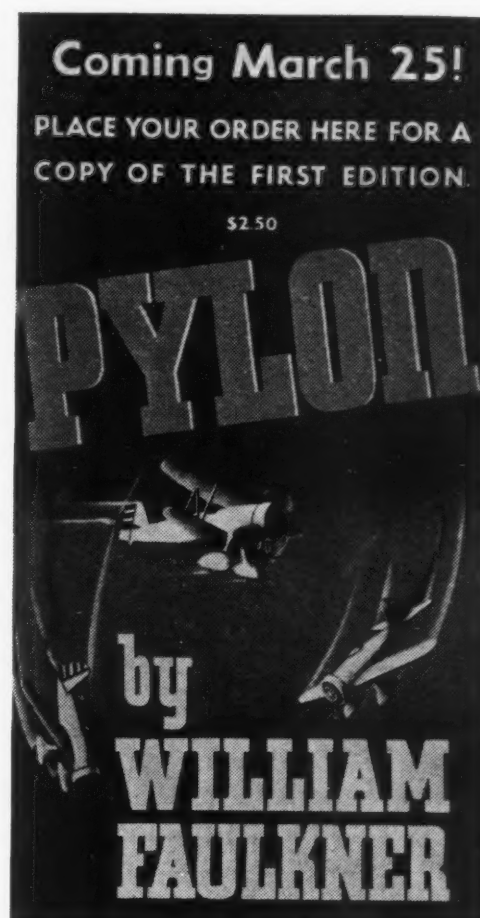

"Better Government Personnel" will have special newspaper announcements on publication.

A special campaign is being planned in the Times and Herald Tribune book sections throughout February on "You Must Relax." "Life Begins at Forty" will have a special campaign in the same media during February, March and April. A number of hobby books and practical books on how to do things will be included on the Whittlesey House spring list with list advertising and perhaps special campaigns.

Circulars are available for every book.

Yale University Press

Effective advertising will be scheduled for "Scenes from the Mesozoic" by Clarence Day, "A Captain Departed" by A. W. Smith and "The Gentleman from New York," a biography of Roscoe Conkling, as well as a new book by Ezra Pound and a biography of Alexander II of Russia.

The top part of this ingeniously designed poster for the new Faulkner novel (Smith & Haas) is made so that it may be torn off on publication date and the remainder of the poster used indefinitely

Pay Assessments Promptly!

ONE OF THE PERSISTENT PROBLEMS which faces Code Committees in every industry is to keep the cost of collecting assessments down to a minimum amount. Without having any instructions to act for the Retail Booksellers Code Authority, Publishers' Weekly very strongly urges that every bookseller who has not done so give immediate attention to the paying of the assessments for which he has already received notice and which were authorized by Washington.

It is one of the bitter realizations of those who do public spirited work for the good of an entire industry that those who are not called on to carry such burdens make it still more difficult for those who do the work by giving almost no attention to the request for information and, more important, for prompt remittances.

Bookselling is an industry which has demanded tremendous sacrifices of time, effort and energy from some of its leaders, and the results have been fruitful, as anyone who has followed the events of the past year knows. The least the trade as a whole can do is to make prompt remittance of the official assessments which are to pay the very low budget of cost for administering the code.

Dealers whose principal business is in the selling and/or lending of books should now pay the National Booksellers Code Authority and no longer pay the Retail Code Authority. The first assessment of the Retail Code covers the period up to October 1934. The assessment under the Booksellers Code covers the period to April 13, 1935. If, therefore, a dealer has made his first payment to the general Retail Code Authority and is now going to remit to the Booksellers Code Authority, he has the privilege of remitting only half to avoid overlapping assessment.

Freedom of the Press

WALTER LIPPMANN'S PLEA for discontinuance of codes in June to safeguard the freedom of the press was presented at the annual luncheon of the National Association of Book Publishers and then syndicated in newspapers throughout the country, but the plea did not have about it a sense of reality which would have made it an urgent call to action on the part of the booktrade. At every point at which government touches business there may be some loss of freedom, and the booktrade is jealous of its rights. Even before the codes publishing was affected by the government's control of the mails, by its control of imports and exports, by postal regulations that give magazines and newspapers preference over books. We cannot see now that the codes which touch publishing have threatened the freedom with which a book publisher measures that which he shall accept and print, nor do we see on the horizon an indication of a threat to such liberty from NRA.

Christopher Morley came close to the point in his rejoinder to Mr. Lippmann when he suggested that when an author has seen his subject as clearly as possible and expressed it as accurately as possible and his publisher has printed that material as written, that's freedom of the press. With such freedom of expression assured, wages, hours and mechanics of distribution can be safely touched by government regulation and probably to their betterment. American newspaper owners produce their papers under conditions which involve relationships with closely knit printing unions, but the material they print is supplied by writers who have, before this present crisis, not been organized at all nor had much inclination to unite, being by nature of the non-organizing type. The present crisis has convinced them that the mechanical workers have achieved far better conditions by organization. Consequently the Newspaper Writers' Guild has been formed under the leadership of Heywood Broun and may be expected to comprise a section of the Authors' League. The connection between this situation, so important to the newspaper owners, and the general liberty of the press is not clear and is not made any clearer by Mr. Lippmann's forceful but rather unconvincing speech.

Promote Home Libraries

ONE SORT OF BOOK which sold well last year was the fundamental home library book, and there were available scores of popular-priced encyclopedias, reference books, atlases, and home library books of all kinds. There is probably nothing more satisfactory for a bookseller to handle than books of that type, and he usually feels confident that once a customer establishes a nucleus of reference books in his home library, the impulse to buy more books for home use will grow.

Home library building is like house building. It goes forward in waves, and it has been some time since a wave of interest in home reference libraries has been apparent, so there should be many good prospects for these books in most communities.

Moreover the bookseller almost never has leftovers of a first rate home reference book. He may conceivably overestimate the size of his first order, but the continuing interest in such books gradually takes them off his counters.

But booksellers often take this stock too much for granted and overlook the possibilities of fresh promotion campaigns of ingeniousness and power, the kind of campaign which a mail-order house or subscription book publishing firm has to evolve in order to insure sufficient returns to make his effort worth while. A little of this extra power and enthusiasm expended this spring on home library books may well be expected to produce results.

Mental Laziness

THE Woman's Home Companion has printed in the widely read column of Anna Steese Richardson a quotation from a speech delivered by Irita Van Doren at the last Herald Tribune conference on public affairs in which she "taxed American club women with neither reading nor buying books. As an indication of their mental laziness, she cited letters from club readers who wrote asking her to supply good reviews of new books, and went on to state that if club women lived up to their claims to culture, they would buy books, read books and write their own reviews."

Such a vigorous expression of opinion may well give food for thought to those people who believe themselves bookish people keeping abreast of present-day thought but who are merely quoting other people's opinions. Perhaps one activity which public libraries might drop from their list of activities under present curtailments is the giving too specific aid to those who are writing for local club programs. Research more personally conducted and opinions individually expressed would make such programs more alive and interesting. Not only should literary opinions be real, but, as Mrs. Van Doren pointed out, a little real book buying would be just as complimentary to the author as would be a paper of favorable criticism. The sale of books is not only a matter of commerce; it is a matter of support for those who can think and write. And those who have a margin of competence out of which they can buy books and spend that margin only on lectures about books are giving poor evidence of the genuineness of their interest in authorship and in the development of better books.

SPRING ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER

News of the Week

Protection on Original Orders Announced by Smith & Haas

A PROTECTION PLAN for booksellers which guarantees 90% protection on original orders of new books has just been announced by Smith & Haas, to be put into effect immediately. This plan has been modeled in conception and operation after the successful plan conceived just three years ago by the Viking Press. Under the Smith & Haas plan original orders for new books will be protected and fully returnable for a credit of 90% of the billed cost. Limited editions or special publications are exempted from this basis, and the protection applies only on original orders placed prior to the publication date. A reorder of a title implies that the original order is exhausted and brings the protection on that title to an end. Provisions are made that reports of stock on hand must be made by January 10th on books published prior to November 1st; by April 10th on books published prior to February 1st; by July 10th on books published prior to May 1st, and by October 10th on books published prior to August 1st. Failure to make a report cancels the protection.

Dutton Offers Prize to Book Critic With Best Promotion Ideas

A UNIQUE CONTEST has been announced by E. P. Dutton & Co. which will award a $100 prize to the book critic anywhere in the United States who submits the best letter containing suggestions and ideas for the presentation and promotion of any book to be published by Dutton between January 1st and June 1st, 1935. All names will be held confidential. Dutton's reports that the contest is being staged "because it is a well known fact that book critics and reviewers write some of the best copy, a great deal of which is constantly used in publishers' advertising, because critics and reviewers have much to criticize in the way publishers present and promote many of their books, because E. P. Dutton & Co. wish to take advantage of the constructive criticism and ideas which critics and reviewers have to offer, and because it gives the critic and reviewer the opportunity to present some practical advice."

Dutton's reserves the right to use any or all ideas or suggestions submitted, but will not use the name of the critic in the promotion work nor make public the identity of the winner without his permission. The contest closes April 1, 1935.

Fourth First Novel Competition Announced by Dodd, Mead

A FOURTH Pictorial Review—Dodd, Mead First Novel Competition with an award of $10,000 plus royalties was announced last week. The competition is open to any American or Canadian author who has never published a novel in book form, and manuscripts should be more than 50,000 words in length. The Pictorial Review and Dodd, Mead guarantee that they will pay the winning author the following sums (a) by the Pictorial Review, for all serial rights, $7,500; (b) by Dodd, Mead, for all book rights, $2,500 in advance and on account of royalties and commissions including 10% on all copies sold in the United States up to 10,000 and 15% thereafter, 7% on all copies sold in Canada, the usual 50% of the royalty received on reprints, 60% of net royalties on British and foreign rights and 80% of the net proceeds from the sale of motion picture rights. The contest closes October 31, 1935.

The first of these competitions was won in 1925 by Martha Ostenso for "Wild Geese"; the second, in 1927, by Matell Howe Farnham with "Rebellion," and the third, in 1934, by L. M. Alexander with "Candy." Further details and application blanks may be secured through Dodd, Mead & Co.

W.N.B.A. Meets

THE WOMEN'S NATIONAL BOOK ASSOCIATION held its regular monthly meeting on January 22nd at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The speakers were Henrietta Buckmaster, author of "Tomorrow Is Another Day," (Henkle), John J. Floherty, author of "Board the Airliner" and "Firefighters" (Doubleday) and Mrs. Edith Flack Ackley, author of "Marionettes: Easy to Make. Fun to Use!" (Stokes).

Exit the Reverend Bogle!

THE REVEREND LAWRENCE P. BOGLE of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, who has been a thorn in the flesh of the booktrade for many years, has at last been rendered harmless due to the consistent and persistent work of George W. Jacobs of Philadelphia, who was fleeced of $15 worth of books by Mr. Bogle last year. Mr. Jacobs now reports that Mr. Bogle entered a plea of guilty on a charge of using the mails to defraud in U. S. Court, Winston-Salem, on November 5th, 1934. The judge continued the sentencing until the next May term of court. A few days after he plead guilty a fraud order was issued by the Post Office Department against Mr. Bogle which prevents his receiving any mail or packages.

Booksellers' League Holds Dinner

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE of New York at its January dinner on the 16th heard John A. Lomax give a fascinating account of his experience traveling 50,000 miles in nine southern states collecting the material for his "American Ballads and Folk Songs," which Macmillan has just published. To the great delight of the large gathering he produced Lead, Belly, for whom he had obtained pardon from his sentence in the Louisiana Penitentiary in order that he might come north and give delight to audiences by singing to the accompaniment of his twelve-string guitar.

Roy Helton, whose book, "Sold Out to the Future" was being that day issued by Harper, outlined his theory of economic salvation which made a strong appeal to those present, and by special request he added to Mr. Lomax's program his own rendering of a hill-billy song.

Sigmund Spaeth gave a talk on "The Facts of Life in Popular Song" from his book published by Whittlesey House, and Alan J. Villiers, who has had the extraordinary experience of being wrecked on the coast of Brooklyn, told for the first time in his delightful and whimsical understatement of the ignominy of having his beautiful full-rigged ship the Joseph Conrad driven ashore in the gale and saved from complete wreckage only by vigorous work. The ship is being repaired and will sail next week for its eighteen months' trip around the world with a crew of fifteen and twelve cadets.

G. & D. Promotes "Back-Logs"

BOOKSELLERS HAVE BEEN WONDERING in the last couple of years whether the popular favorites of the first quarter of this century had lost their magic appeal, but toward the close of 1934 Grosset & Dunlap, whose finger has to be kept on the pulse of a widely scattered market, began to notice a very definite upturn in dealer demand for old favorites. The demand seemed to come from all types of stores. The publisher's reasoning on this has been that the dealers, who reach popular audiences, had been finding that the sophisticated books were losing their appeal to their particular customers, and also that they had exhausted the possibilities of "distress merchandise," so dealers had decided to put back on their shelves the tested books which had brought them such tremendous turnover a few years back and for which a new audience might now be ready.

With this in mind, Louis Reed, G. & D.'s market analyst set his office to work to collect sales statistics, and the 100 best titles were drawn off. The total sales which these 100 titles had already achieved were rather startling; 26,500,000, or an average of over a quarter of a million apiece. This group constitutes, then, the G. & D.'s back-log business of the Popular Copyrights, and these are now to be given additional exploitation under the caption of "100 Back-Log Titles." To make this campaign more dramatic G. & D. then selected twelve titles for special emphasis. Over 6,000,000 copies of these 12 books have been sold in reprint form alone, an average of one-half million apiece, headed by "Freckles," which ran well over a million.

Students of popular taste in reading will be interested in studying the character and authorship of these 12 books. They are: "Freckles," "Main Street," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "K," "Sorrell and Son," "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Janice Meredith," "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "The Secret Garden," "The Covered Wagon," and "The Virginian." Various classifications are represented among these titles: historical novels such as "Janice Meredith," outstanding modern realism such as "Main Street," romance such as "Sorrell and Son" and "K," westerns such as "Riders of the Purple Sage" and "The Virginian," books with special appeal to young people such as "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and "The Secret Garden," and a book with that perennially appealing title, "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

If this experiment brings the results expected, which, judging from the publisher's current report, seems likely, it will affect not merely one list but will help to restore the sales value of scores of titles for which there will be a potential market for some time to come. Good romances, westerns and historical novels, like good poems, bear repeating, and underneath all discussions of authors' names and literary styles there is an undercurrent of recommendations of books, recommendations that are passed along from the satisfied reader of a good story to his neighbor and these have effect year after year.

New Mystery Library

BENNETT CERF, president of Modern Library, Inc., and Random House, conceived the idea of new editions of the best modern detective stories which have found large audiences in original and reprint editions and whose reputation persists among lovers of good mystery fiction. From the long list of detective fiction of which at least 500 a year are published, Mr. Cerf, as editor, is making careful selections which will be marketed jointly by Grosset & Dunlap and A. L. Burt Company, the titles to be selected from the best of each of these publishers' lists, both publishers to have their own imprint on this edition and to market the books in their own way. These new editions to be known as the Ferret Library will have a format of pocket size, $5\frac{1}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$, with an attractive title-page, lining papers, jacket in green and white, bands with bold lettering for display purposes. This series will be put on display February 15th.

The first 12 titles Mr. Cerf has selected are: "Lone Wolf" by Louis J. Vance; "The Bellamy Trial" by Frances Noyes Hart; "Circular Staircase" by Mary Roberts Rinehart; "Murder of Roger Ackroyd" by Agatha Christie; "The Dark Eyes of London" by Edgar Wallace; "Green Murder Case" by S. S. Van Dine; "Insidious Dr. Fu Manchu" by Sax Rohmer; "Middle Temple Murder" by J. S. Fletcher; "Mystery of the Boule Cabinet" by Burton Stevenson; "Behind That Curtain" by Earl Derr Biggers; "The Great Impersonation" by E. Phillips Oppenheim; "Hound of the Baskervilles" by A. Conan Doyle.

U. S. Will Aid Education

FEDERAL EXPENDITURES on projects affecting education will amount to $130,000,000, according to Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education. $20,000,000 will be spent on salaries of "unemployed" teachers on adult education projects, $10,000,000 for salaries of regular teachers in States that would otherwise have to close their schools, and $15,000,000 in cash payments for "made work" for 100,000 college students. Among other projects $5,000,000 will be spent for a nation-wide survey of school needs. Dr. Studebaker estimates that during the next three years $500,000,000 will be spent in the construction of new school buildings.

An opportunity for a great adult educational project is presented by the 1,700 CCC camps in the country, Dr. Studebaker says, and reports that President Roosevelt is interested in having these camps educational. These projects will undoubtedly affect, directly or indirectly, the demand for books.

Need of Price Stabilization

THE BUSINESS PAGES of the New York Times of January 20th summarized the general expression in industry of opinions which evolved from the recent NRA hearings. This analysis reads as follows:

"Discussion among business men last week on the price-fixing hearings in Washington brought out the growing opinion that the almost unanimous stand of manufacturers in favor of some form of price stabilization might cause the administration to soften its opposition to such provisions. While nothing tangible was heard from NRA circles, the opinion was expressed that officials could not help being impressed by the testimony of the business representatives.

"One executive declared that the hearings helped to clarify the confusion of thought resulting from the lumping of all forms of price control under the term "price-fixing." Frequent reiterations by witnesses that bans on selling below cost, minimum prices and open price filing were not price-fixing are believed to have had a definite effect. It was considered likely that the administration might make some concessions to business, by allowing a retention in codes of some price control provisions, while banning actual price-fixing clauses."

American Mercury Sold

LAWRENCE E. SPIVAK, who has been business manager of the American Mercury for several years, has purchased the magazine from Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. Mr. Spivak has appointed as a new editor Paul Palmer, who was Sunday editor of the New York World from 1926 to 1931 and before that Sunday editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Charles Angoff, who was made editor in 1933, has severed his connection with the magazine. Mr. Spivak will become active as publisher with the April issue. The American Mercury was started 11 years ago under the editorship of H. L. Mencken. Laurence Stallings, playwright, former literary editor of the New York World, and editor of "The First World War," will be literary editor of the new Mercury. It is rumored that the magazine, which has been a forum for radical intellectuals since its inception will become definitely conservative.

NRA Approves Medical Book Code Authority

THE NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION has approved the Code Authority of the Medical and Allied Book Publishing Division of the Book Publishing Industry, consisting of Horace C. White of P. Blakiston's Son & Co., Inc.; Ellis W. Bacon of the J. B. Lippincott Co.; W. D. Watson of W. B. Saunders Co.; J. N. Myers of the Macmillan Co., and Robert S. Gill of Williams & Wilkins Co.

Fireside Hour Announces Speakers

GUEST SPEAKERS on the Fireside Hour, broadcast on Sunday nights by the National Broadcasting Company will include, during January and February, Sigmund Spaeth, Senator William Borah, Dr. John C. Merriam, Raymond Moley and Norman Thomas. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, is tentatively scheduled for February 10th, and a Saturday Review of Literature night may be arranged for February 17th. On the 24th, Dr. Raymond Ditmars will be the guest.

Woodward & Lothrop in Washington, D. C., reports that after Countee Cullen and James Weldon Johnson appeared in the broadcast there were many calls for their books.

McFarland Resigns

A. C. MCFARLAND, manager of the University of Chicago Press, who has been connected with the Press for the past 36 years, has presented his resignation, asking that he be allowed to retire at the end of the academic year. Mr. McFarland has been a leader in improving the typography of the work of the university presses, and has been active in the Association of University Presses. He was made the first honorary member of the Association.

British Magazines Combine

The Bookman and The London Mercury have been amalgamated, and the first combined issue will be the January number which has now gone out to subscribers. The new magazine will retain, in its enlarged and improved form, the best traditions of both journals. The subscription rate is 15 shillings a year, and all outstanding subscriptions to The Bookman have been transferred to the combined magazine. The journal is published by The Rolls House Publishing Co., Ltd., Breams Buildings, London E. C. 4, England.

Workers' Bookstore to Celebrate

A BANQUET will be held on April 13th to celebrate the tenth anniversary of The Workers Book Store of Chicago, Ill. The event will take place in Mirror Hall, 1136 North Western Ave., and the evening will feature, besides a dinner, a musical program, a floor show and a group of nationally known speakers. Tickets are 75c each and may be procured by writing to the shop at 2135 W. Division St., Chicago, Ill.

25th Poetry Society Dinner

THE POETRY SOCIETY OF AMERICA will hold its 25th Anniversary Dinner at the Hotel Biltmore in New York on January 31st. Henry Goddard Leach, president of the Society, will officiate, and guests of honor will include Robert Hillyer, Stephen Vincent Benét, Leonora Speyer, Edwin Markham, Robert Tristram Coffin, Joseph Auslander, Curtis Hidden Page, David Morton, Harold Pulsifer, Anna Hempstead Branch and John Hall Wheelock. A medal will be presented to Leonora Speyer, the retiring president.

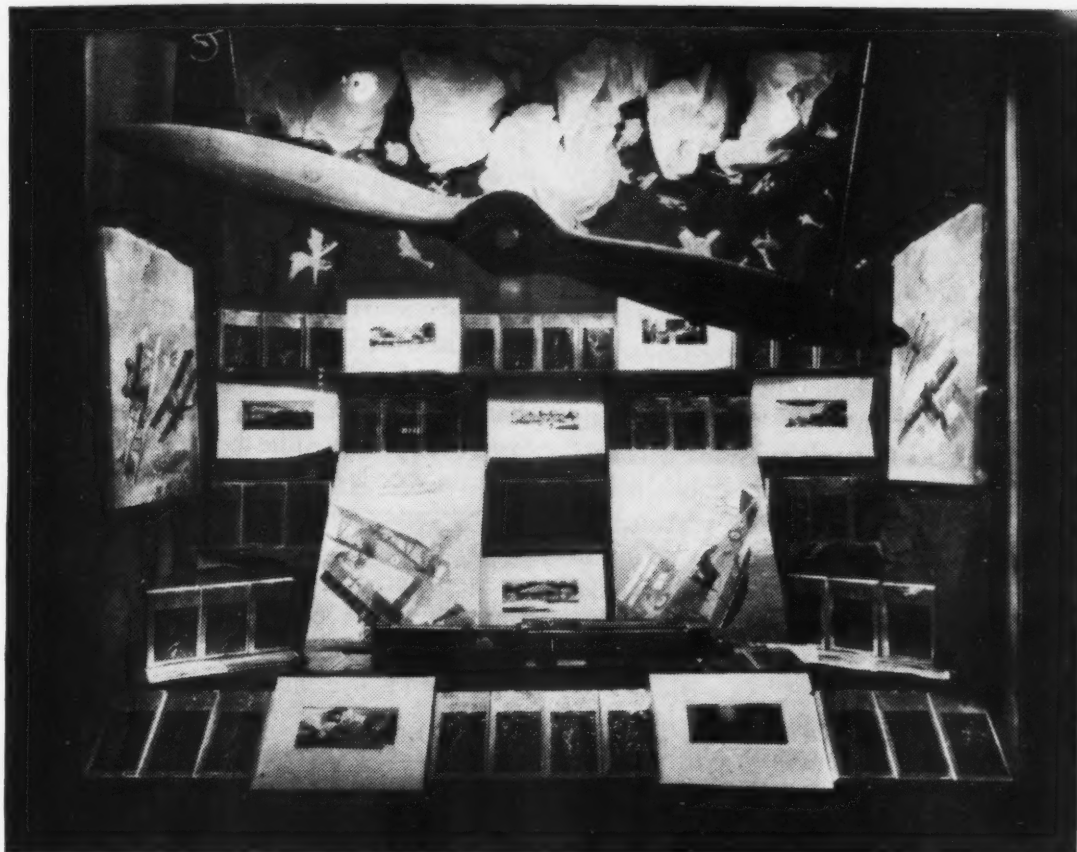

It Ought to be History

or, Don't Say It Isn't So

OGDEN NASH

This poem will appear in Ogden Nash's new book of verse, "The Primrose Path," to be published on Valentine's Day by Simon & Schuster, who have very kindly permitted the Publishers' Weekly to offer its readers this preview

SOMETIMES it seems to me that the ranks of present-day historians
Must be composed entirely of particularly skeptical Missourians;
How else do you explain all the professors who write books to prove that there isn't a grain of truth
In any of the books of our youth,
And authorities who assure us that our early education was fraught
With teachings that should never have been taught?
Modern research, they inform us, has ascertained that Washington never chopped down a cherry tree or threw a dollar across the Potomac,
And Napoleon never told his soldiers that forty centuries looked down upon them from the pyramids or coined the slogan that an army marches on its stomach.
Lincoln, they say, never sat in the firelight scratching his arithmetic lesson on the back of a shovel,
Nor did King Alfred burn the cakes in the peasant's hovel;
They have as little use for Gibbon and Macaulay
As they have for the story about the mud-puddle and Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh;
They dismiss the courtship of Miles Standish
With a murmur of "Outlandish!"
They prefer to believe that Christopher Marlowe and Alexander Hamilton were run over by trolley cars rather than killed in duels,
And they ruthlessly obliterate the pleasing Roman matron who said "These are my jewels."
If you mention the heroism of the Spartans at Thermopylae
They look at you as if you had spoken of American womanhood improperly;
They deny that Ethan Allan ever said what he is supposed to have said at the taking of Ticonderoga,
And they say that Julius Caesar couldn't possibly have had a lot of dagger-holes in his toga because a recently discovered document records that when he was assassinated he was wearing a morning-coat and not a toga,
And if you believe that the snakes were driven out of Ireland by Saint Patrick,
Why, they simply tell you you are psychiatric.
Well, I don't know, the history we learned in our childhood may have been too allegorical
To be really historical;
Perhaps it contained too high a total
Of content anecdotal;
But when all is said and done,
It was fun,
And I pity today's youngers,
Whose history is so hygienically filtered by pedantic debunkers.
It's a condition I deplore,
And I look forward to the day when history will once again be as fascinating and easy to remember and unreliable as it was of yore.

Dauber & Pine in New York City built a striking display around Norman Archibald's "Heaven High Hell Deep" which is rapidly becoming a hit

News from Publishers

NORMAN ARCHIBALD'S "Heaven High Hell Deep" is the latest book to catch on in a sudden spectacular way. Albert Boni tells us that he accepted the manuscript very reluctantly, thinking to himself "You're just a generous jackass." But he liked the book so much that he took it. It was published January 15th in an edition of 3,000 copies. It was favorably reviewed in five New York papers in the next two days. On the 15th a second edition of 2,500 was ordered; and on Thursday, a third edition of 5,000. In the January 19th Literary Digest "Heaven High Hell Deep" was called "the best war book since E. E. Cummings' 'The Enormous Room.'" The Old Corner Bookstore in Boston, Harry Hartman in Seattle, Doubleday and Womrath have ordered in quantities.

We were impressed in looking over publishers' spring catalogs by the numerous changes that have been made in format, all of which go a long way towards offering easily assimilated information to the bookseller. Dutton, for instance, checked very carefully with booksellers and librarians as a result of reading Virginia Kirkus's article "What Form for Your Spring Lists?" in the November 24th issue of the Publishers' Weekly, and developed a spring list from the suggestions these people had to offer. It follows in general outline the form developed by Little, Brown and Morrow in their confidential booksellers' catalogs, outlining briefly the story, the author, the market and the promotion. Title, author, price, publication date and classification are all placed so that the eye may readily pick them out.

Harper, too, has adopted the outline form with very convincing market analyses and a full account of promotion plans. The Viking and Whittlesey House catalogs also use the outline form, and Reynal & Hitchcock's catalog vies with Harper's in the completeness of its market analysis and outline of promotion suggestions and plans. We are sure that booksellers welcome this attention to their needs.

The Book-of-the-Month Club is sending out with "Road of Ages," its February selection, a copy of what it calls "the most neglected book of 1934," "Salah and His American" by Leland Hall. The Book-of-the-Month Club News, commenting on this innovation, says "Besides presenting this book, next month, through a special arrangement with its publisher, the Club is able to announce a project it has long had somewhat quixotically in mind. The idea is to assist, by practical measures, and not by mere exhortation to readers, in rescuing from an undeserved oblivion books of exceptional merit, which we feel certain would be enjoyed by thousands of readers, but which in the confusion that attends modern publishing are on the verge of being sunk without a trace." "Salah and His American" was published by Alfred A. Knopf in February 1934 and, in spite of unusual critical acclaim and support from a number of personal booksellers, has sold fewer than 2,000 copies.

Another anomaly, also published last year by Mr. Knopf, is "The Death Ship" by B. Traven, whose "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre" will be published this May. B. Traven is an American, his book was written in English, but it was first published in German, in Germany. It has sold over 2,000,000 copies in the fourteen different countries in which it has been published: the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Russia, France, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Hungary, Poland and Holland, and out of those 2,000,000 and more copies the total sale in the United States has been exactly 2,200 copies! Mr. Knopf is issuing no cheap editions, however, as he firmly believes that the book will eventually achieve the sale here that he feels it deserves.

In Alexander Woollcott's broadcast of December 16th, his sponsors offered free, to anyone who would write in, a pamphlet containing four stories from "While Rome Burns," issued in cooperation with the Viking Press. That's all there was to it—just the announcement, no other inducement was made. Up to date 35,000 requests have been received. Viking believes that, as it was made clear that the material in the pamphlet was taken from the book, these 35,000 persons represented Woollcott fans who had not yet read "While Rome Burns" and that they were all potential purchasers. This may account for the very strong sales of the book in the first two weeks of January, when nearly 5,000 copies were sold. Total sales of the book this week amount to over 90,000.

Ray Bond of Dodd, Mead reports with pardonable pride that "The Home Book of Quotations" has gone into its second printing within six weeks after publication. He also gives us some idea of the work that goes into making a book of that size. It was set by the Vail-Ballou Press at Binghamton, N. Y., and the type metal used weighs 15 tons. The book contains over two million words and took 11 weeks to set, using 3 machines running two 8-hour shifts on each machine. More than 700 hours were used in printing the book. Instead of laying the pages end to end in the customary manner Mr. Bond lays them side by side in his mind's eye and finds that they stretch from New York to Oklahoma City. The Chillicothe Paper Co. used 1,000 gallons of pure artesian water in making this paper. These figures apply only to the first edition. You'd have to double them for both editions. Incidentally, Mr. Bond reports that lynx-eyed readers have so far discovered only two errors and one of those is open to question. Mr. Stevenson, the editor, will welcome suggestions for corrections or additions; in fact he asks for them in his preface to the book.

In a special pocket on the inside front cover of "Junior Fire Chief" by Miriam Rosenthal (Samuel Gabriel) is a gilt badge with the inscription "Junior Fire Chief." A legend under this special pocket says "Important. Do not remove this badge from the book. Your Fire Chief is the only person who is permitted to take it out and pin it on you. He will not do that until you have earned the right to wear the badge." To earn this right the child whose book it is must read the book (a story of how fire companies work, with graphic illustrations), learn what it has to say about the prevention of fires, and sign a pledge in the back of the book covering a number of thoughtless acts that can cause fires. When this is countersigned by the fire chief, the child becomes a "Junior Fire Chief" and is entitled to wear the badge.

Scott, Foresman & Co. have just published a dictionary for children. It was compiled by Dr. Edward Lee Thorndike, professor of education at Teachers' College, Columbia University, whose textbooks on teaching methods are used in many colleges throughout the country. The dictionary is for children of elementary school age and contains 25,000 words that they most frequently meet; each word is defined as simply as possible for a child between the ages of ten and fifteen, and a great many words which were likely to confuse and hinder the child were not included. The book is called "The Thorndike Century Junior Dictionary" and represents twenty-seven years of study and research. Most of the selection was based on two previous pieces of his "The Teachers' Word List" and "Twenty Thousand Words Most Used in Reading."

Richard R. Smith has joined the organization of Funk & Wagnalls with sales responsibilities in both their educational and trade departments. Mr. Smith has completed the arrangements with Grosset & Dunlap for popular priced editions of several of the Funk and Wagnalls widely known reference books by Vizetelly, Fernald and others.

Two more publishers have joined K. M. V., the cooperative shipping company. They are William R. Scott and The Quarrie Company of Chicago.

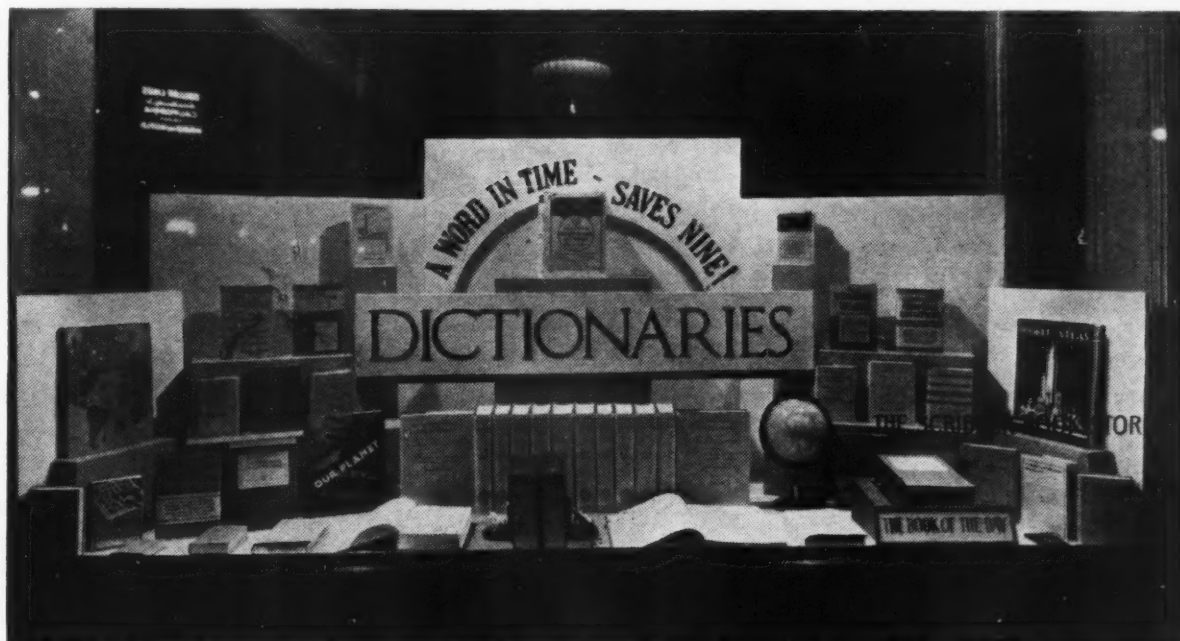

The New York salesroom of Milton Bradley Company and McLoughlin Bros., Inc., is now located in the Fifth Avenue Building, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Authors and Others

LAURA E. RICHARDS celebrates her eighty-fifth birthday on February 27th at her home in Gardiner, Maine, reminding us of a long and distinguished career as a writer. Early in her career she wrote that outstanding best seller, "Captain January." Booksellers of the 1890's will not need to be reminded of this title, which is a short story of somewhat the size and appeal of that other famous best seller "The Birds' Christmas Carol" by Kate Douglas Wiggin, another Maine author. The reappearance of Maine authors in best seller lists has again been an interesting feature of the last few years with such books as "Mary Peters" by Mary Ellen Chase, "As the Earth Turns" by Gladys Hasty Carroll, "Lost Paradise" by Robert P. Tristram Coffin, "Captain Caution" by Kenneth Roberts, and, of course, there are two Maine poets of permanent significance, Robinson and Millay.

Sheila Kaye-Smith and her husband, T. Penrose Fry, who are on their first visit to this country, were guests of honor at a tea given by Miss Kaye-Smith's publishers, Harper & Bros., at the Hotel Plaza on January 18th.

Scribner's capitalized on the current interest in reference books with this well-designed and arresting window display

Vardis Fisher, whose new novel "We Are Betrayed," the third in a tetralogy which began with "In Tragic Life" and "Passions Spin the Plot," has just been published by Doubleday, writes his publishers that he has discovered a new interest in contemporary literature among people in the Northwest. He recently spent a month in the Boise Valley, where he talked to audiences in Boise and Caldwell, Idaho. He was "surprised by the deep interest, the hunger in the minds and hearts of the audiences. They asked questions, not about Joyce, Faulkner and Caldwell, but about the proletarian novel, communism and fascism. Truths that would have offended them three years ago, they were now eager for. My own books which, not so long ago some of these people would have thrown out the window, they now read with less distaste than wonder. What, they want to know, is the significance of the writing of Farrell, Halper, Herbst. Three years ago they would have found the question irrelevant."

Michael Sadlier, of Constable's, biographer of Anthony Trollope, will arrive in New York February 3rd.

Stanley Walker, author of "City Editor" and himself city editor of the New York Herald Tribune for the past several years, resigned that position last week to become managing editor of the New York Mirror, a tabloid controlled by William Randolph Hearst.

The Index, published monthly by the New York Trust Company, has a six-page article on the book publishing industry in the December number.

The Commonweal, the well-known Catholic magazine, is celebrating its tenth anniversary with a new format designed by George F. Trenholm of Boston, the original having been done by Porter Garnett of Pittsburgh.

The judges in the Golden Book College Short Story Contest, which closes April 15, 1935, will be Sylvia C. Bates, Helen Hull, John Bakeless, Burton Rascoe and Roger Shaw.

The Atlanta Constitution is planning to make a more important feature of its book reviews, and has put this department under Julian Harris, son of Joel Chandler Harris, whose Uncle Remus stories first appeared in the Constitution. Mr. Harris has held practically every executive position in the editorial department of the Constitution, was in 1914 and 1915 Sunday editor of the New York Herald, and later editor and general manager of the Paris Herald. He is one of the trustees of the Pulitzer School of Journalism.

Changes in Address

Chicago, Ill.—The Workers Book Store has moved to 2135 W. Division St. A branch store was opened, recently, at 505 S. State Street. The branch store, S. T. Hammersmark, the manager, says, is doing better business than the parent store.

New York City—The New Republic has moved to 40 E. 49th St.

Omaha, Nebr.—The Parnassus Book Shop has moved from 215 S. 20th St. to 2006 Farnam St., and the name changes to Brumbaugh of Omaha. The Parnassus Book Shop was established in 1926 and has been under the same management since 1929. The manager is Edmund R. Brumbaugh.

Rochester, N. Y.—Rhea's Gift Shoppe has moved from 17 S. Fitzhugh Street to 34 Main Street, West.

New Shops

Rutland, Vt.—Hartford's Bookstore has been opened at 121 West Street by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartford. The shop is very attractive in a bookish sort of way. Books and stationery with some novelties occupy a space of approximately 1000 square feet. There are two good show windows, and the lending library has a location that for the comfort and convenience of the customer is ideal. Mr. Hartford requests catalogs and quotations from all publishers.

Loring & Mussey, Publishers, moved on January 14th to a new office at 66 Fifth Avenue, New York City. They are now in office space all their own and are doing their own billing and shipping. All correspondence should be sent to the new address.

BOOKLESS MISSISSIPPI

Stokes & Stockell, Inc.

Nashville, Tennessee

January 16, 1935

Editor, Publishers' Weekly:

It has long been one of our notions that the reason the South does not buy books is because the publishers do no advertising in the South. Automobiles, breakfast foods, cigarettes, etc., are sold as well in the South in proportion as elsewhere, but since no book advertising to speak of goes on here, we blamed that fact for the small amount that is spent for books in this section.

When Stark Young's "So Red The Rose" had been read and glowed over by us, I ran across a statement by Simon and Schuster that they had sold exactly $8.08 worth of books in Mississippi in the years they had been in business; so I thought it would be swell to show that although S. & S. of New York couldn't make Mississippians buy books, that S. & S. of Nashville could. So we got a Mississippi list of the Alumni of Vanderbilt University and wrote hundreds and hundreds of personal letters, entirely by hand, and in the most persuasive manner. And not one order! Not even one reply!

We would like to congratulate Simon and Schuster on being the finest book salesmen we know of.

THEY ORDER THIS BETTER . . .

The Bookshop for Boys and Girls

Boston, Massachusetts

January 18, 1935

Editor, Publishers' Weekly:

"They order," I said, "this matter better in France," wrote Laurence Sterne.

Surely many booksellers will be reaching for their pencils after reading the article in the January 12th number of Publishers' Weekly to write "Ah, Miss Hannay. They order this matter better in America."

"Has any publisher ever said to any bookseller, 'I can't recommend that book to you. It's not really in your line.?'"

To the Bookshop for Boys and Girls in Boston, the answer is a most decided yes. The "travelers," all of them, show a genuine appreciation of our special situation here in a city where the Puritan spirit is still alive, and in a shop which has good reading for young people as the primary reason for being in existence. We have books for all ages, with an upstairs bookroom of home interests; books on arts and crafts, education, and gardens to help in the pattern of civilized living; our friends, the book salesmen, help us to keep our stock selective and vital, by their direct warnings as well as enthusiasms.

THE TIME HAS COME

Ream's, Inc.

Lancaster, Pa.

January 19, 1935.

The Editor, Publishers' Weekly:

The Book Review of the New York Times for January 20th carries an advertisement of a full page of the Book-of-the-Month Club.

Among the many alluring statements made is one that the "intellectual elite of the country—numbering about 100,000 families—now get most of their books through the Book-of-the-Month Club."

The statement is so snobbishly absurd as to be highly humorous to an intelligent reader even falling short of the "intellectual elite." But as misleading and annoying is the statement that the book "The End of the Chapter" will be sent free as a dividend to a subscriber with a blocked in: "The three novels in this volume sold separately for a total of $7.50." There is no mention of the fact that the volume containing all of these three novels sells for $3.00 at any bookstore.

I believe the time has come for all good booksellers to come to the aid of their party in regard to the implications of the Book-of-the-Month Club. They carry on an insidious, and too often effectual, warfare against the booksellers, most of whom look upon their business as a part of the cultural life of a community, and not merely a mail order business.

Obituary Notes

CLIFFORD L. LEGERTON

CLIFFORD L. LEGERTON, the oldest bookseller in South Carolina, and president of Legerton & Co., Inc., in that city, died on January 2nd at the age of 81. Mr. Legerton founded with David Macmillan the book and stationery store in November, 1888, before that time having been employed by Walker, Evans & Cogswell Co. for twenty years, first as an office boy and later as buyer and manager of the stationery department. The new firm was called Legerton & Macmillan, but three years later when David Macmillan left for the Klondike and sold his interest to his partner, the name was changed to C. L. Legerton, Bookseller and Stationer. The business steadily prospered and in 1901 was moved to more commodious quarters from 282 to 263 King Street, its present address. In 1911, Mr. Legerton incorporated the business, changing the firm name to Legerton & Co., Inc. Associated with him in the incorporation were his nephew, Clarence W. Legerton, who was elected treasurer, and S. D. Edwards, who had been in the employ eighteen years, became vice-president. In 1914, Miss A. G. Barton, who had been with the firm for ten years, became secretary. Toward the last Mr. Legerton was active in the business, although he had leaned more and more upon his nephew for the management of the establishment. Clarence W. Legerton becomes treasurer of the firm, S. D. Edwards remains as vice-president and Miss A. G. Barton as secretary.

JAKE FALSTAFF

HERMAN FETZER, better known as Jake Falstaff, columnist of The Cleveland Press, died January 17th at his home in Cleveland at the age of 35. Mr. Fetzer's column appeared under two headings, one was called "Pippins and Cheese" and the other "Rural Vacation." In June 1929 he came to New York to pinch-hit on The World for F. P. A. who was taking a summer vacation. His column was well received, and he was so impressed with New York that for three years or more he wrote almost daily of the city. He contributed frequently to The Conning Tower. He was the author of "Book of Rabelais" and "Reini Kugel."

New Catholic Book Club

A NEW RELIGIOUS book club, known as Spiritual Book Associates, Inc., has been established with offices at 415 Lexington Ave., New York City. Rev. F. X. Downey, S.J., is editorial secretary. This organization has been designed to supplement the work of the Catholic Book Club which excludes purely religious and spiritual books. Spiritual Book Associates will send out what its board selects as the outstanding spiritual book of the month to subscribers each month at $1.50 regardless of the publishers' price of the book, or for a yearly subscription fee of $15 for ten books, no selections being made in July and August. A reader's service, The Survey of Current Catholic Literature, will be sent gratis to all subscribers.

5,000,000 Pamphlets

FIVE MILLION PAMPHLETS supporting the utilities view of modern economics were distributed in one state alone, Illinois, according to the third section of the Federal Trade Commission's report to Congress on utility activities. The utilities' committee which was made responsible for the distribution of educational propaganda was known as the "Twig Committee," the name having been inspired by the old proverb, "As the twig is bent the bough is inclined." Millions of pamphlets have been distributed over the country, lecturers supplied and institutions themselves given large sums.

Poster Stamp Society Formed

A NATIONAL POSTER STAMP SOCIETY has been organized with headquarters at 64 East Lake Street, Chicago, with the idea of encouraging a revival in the production of artistic advertising stamps and in making these effective as advertising by encouraging their collection in the same way in which government postage stamps are collected. There was a great enthusiasm for these stamps twenty-five or thirty years ago. The president of the organization is Leon H. Lewis. The Society will act as a clearing house for the exchange of poster stamps between members without charge for this service. Publishing is among the industries being asked to consider this type of advertising.

Correction

IN THE WEEKLY RECORD of December 8th several Columbia University Press publications were listed by mistake. These books, all in the Facsimile Text Society series were actually not published in 1934. Their titles and publication dates follow:

Blake: "Poetical Sketches," Jan. 3, 1935.
Bunyan: "Pilgrims' Progress," Jan. 4, 1935.
Donne: "1st and 2nd Anniversaries," Jan. 10, 1935.
Goldsmith: "Deserted Village," Jan. 15, 1935.
Keats: "Poems 1817," Jan. 18, 1935.
Milton: "Areopagitica," Jan. 23, 1935.
Milton: "Minor Poems," Jan. 29, 1935.

Dodd, Mead Takes Over Play

THE TRADE RIGHTS of Maxwell Anderson's play "Valley Forge," which is currently running on Broadway, have been taken over by Dodd, Mead from Anderson House. The book is cloth-bound with a title-page in two colors and endpaper maps of Valley Forge. Two songs used in the play are included, with the music, at the end of the volume. The price is $2.50.

Bogus $20 Bills

HENRY C. SMITH of Dutton's Inc., warns us of bad $20 bills that are floating about. Dutton's caught one recently but another was successfully passed. On this particular bill the green on the back is not quite so brilliant as on the genuine bill and the picture of the White House, instead of being clear and white, is decidedly green. The method of the passer is to buy a book to go to a friend and present the bill, pocketing the change. The friend's address turns out to be non-existent.

Ten Best Movies of 1934

OF THE TEN favorite motion pictures of the year chosen by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, four were adapted directly from novels, two from well-known plays and one from a short story. The ten movies are: "One Night of Love," "The House of Rothschild," based on a play by G. H. Westley; "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," adapted from the play by Rudolf Besier; "The Thin Man," adapted from Dashiell Hammett's novel; "It Happened One Night," adapted from a story by Samuel Hopkins Adams; "The Count of Monte Cristo," a screen version of the Dumas novel; "Of Human Bondage," adapted from the novel by W. Somerset Maugham; "Queen Christina," "Treasure Island," adapted from Stevenson, and "What Every Woman Knows" adapted from the Barrie play.

Super-Salesman

Peddlebook Puts One Over

DONALD PORTER GEDDES

of the Columbia University Press

PEDDLEBOOK WANTED A RAISE. He knew Doublespread well enough, though, to realize that he ought to wait until that gentleman was in a particularly appreciative mood. But he wanted his raise in a hurry, and felt that he could not wait until Mr. Doublespread just naturally gave him the proper opportunity to ask for what he wanted. So he decided he would have to create an opportunity, which is what he did. When the time was ripe, he sprang it.

"I've an idea," said Peddlebook.

"Good," said Doublespread, "we need ideas in this business."

"I've figured out what's wrong with the book business."

"Fine. Do you think you can fix it?" Mr. Doublespread was a very considerate person, and his face did not show all the amusement he felt.

"As I see it," began the young man who had figured out what was wrong with the book business, "books are sold as the result of what might be called promotional influences. These promotional influences are of two types, but they have one thing in common—they both cost money."

"The first type of promotional influence is composed of what I call the pushing factors. Usually, these are advertising, circularization, and jackets. You notice that these pushing factors are all within the control of the publisher. They can be bought in any quantities and qualities desired."

Doublespread nodded for him to continue.

"Now the second type of promotional influence comprises what I call the pulling factors. These, ordinarily, are reviews, news and feature stories, literary notes, bookstore display, word-of-mouth advertising, etc. Now, just as the pushing factors are all within the absolute control of the publisher, so these pulling factors are all without, or beyond the control of the publisher. And it costs money to try to get these pulling factors to function."

At this point, Doublespread expressed his first interest, so Peddlebook hastened to point his moral.

"As I see it, a book sells, or doesn't sell, more or less on the basis of whether or not these pulling forces are operating. You can advertise, and circularize, and put a four-hundred-dollar jacket on a book, but if the pulling forces aren't in effect, it's all for naught. As a matter of fact, the whole investment may hinge on these pulling factors. In other words, publication is no more effective than these forces. Yet these forces are least considered of all that pertain to the publication of a book."

"All right," said Doublespread, "but what's your idea?"

"Super-selling."

"Super-selling? What do you mean?"

"Super-selling," said Peddlebook, "would be the stimulating of all these pulling factors; it would have to be done very carefully, you see, because the super-salesman would be a propagandist. And propaganda, in order to be successful, must come from sources which are not hidden, and for purposes which are not misrepresented."

"In effect, what the super-salesman would do would be to go around saying, 'I represent Doublespread, Inc., and I am trying to push the sale of Ima Scrivener's "The Warp and the Woof."' There would be no secret about the whole thing, but it would be accomplished so easily, so incidentally, so subtly, that people would have only the idea of a delightful conversation; instead of the feeling that they had been forced to attend a lecture so that the lecturer might make a little money."

"The pulling factors are reviews, news and feature stories, literary notes, bookstore display, and word-of-mouth advertising. The super-salesman would consciously cultivate all the persons who control these factors. He would arrange, somehow, to be invited to speak to important and representative groups."

"What good would that do?"

"It would start people talking. Before word-of-mouth advertising can start, people must read the book, or have talked with or listened to someone who has. Grossly stated, what we want to do is start favorable whispering campaigns about our books. That's all word-of-mouth advertising is. In this matter of lecturing, the author can do a lot of super-selling."

"He does," said Doublespread, "and always has."

"Yes, but it is unorganized, undirected, and inefficient. Especially, should the author see the bookseller. Because from the author, the bookseller can obtain the most dramatic version of the book. And besides, most booksellers are impressed no end by authors. The more a person knows about a book, the more interestingly he can present it. The knowledge a bookseller has about a book, ordinarily, is so superficial that it's a wonder he ever convinces anybody they ought to read it. The super-salesman must give the bookseller enough information about a book so that he can understand and enjoy it; then he will be able to interest others in it without effort. But what the super-salesman does to the bookseller must please the bookseller, as a dish of ice-cream or a glass of beer does. The bookseller really must be made to want the propaganda."

"Well?" Doublespread wasn't committing himself yet.

Fortunately, Peddlebook had saved his most practical plan for the end. "Now there is another phase of super-selling which I can best illustrate in terms of some book we both know, say Scrivener's 'The Warp and the Woof.' This book presents the deplorable conditions under which laborers work in the textile mills in the town of Illiterate. It is authentic. Miss Scrivener has lived in Illiterate all her life, and knows whereof she writes. But why did she write this book? Just to write a novel? No, to try to correct these conditions. It is a book with a very tangible and laudable social purpose. Writing is Miss Scrivener's contribution to the cause. There are, though, many others who feel the same way about it who can't write. They can only read. Might they not like, especially those of them who have money, to do a little bit more for the cause? A book like this must be read by hundreds of people. A person who gave it to hundreds might get as much satisfaction and happiness as the person who writes it. Or, you can look at it this way, a book can't do anything unless it is read. The more it is read, the greater its force. Who knows, there may be someone, even in Illiterate, who can't write, who has money, and who is just as anxious to help this cause as Scrivener. The super-salesman should find such persons, and give them expert advice so that the books could be distributed most effectively."

"Do you mean, Peddlebook, that you would like to go to Illiterate to try to find such a person?"

"Why, yes, I would."

"Well, go ahead. It's a good idea. I don't know how it will come out, but it's worth trying."

Peddlebook came back two days later with a grin on his face from ear to ear. "Does that mean success?" asked Doublespread.

Peddlebook nodded in the affirmative.

"How many copies?"

"Five hundred."

"Great scott," exclaimed Doublespread, "who bought 500 copies?"

"The author."

"You mean you sold 500 copies of her own book to Miss Scrivener?"

Peddlebook grinned some more, "You see, when I got to Illiterate, I couldn't find anybody in the whole town who cared a damn about the conditions of the laborer except Miss Scrivener. Naturally, she was my only prospect. So I told her that we were worried about her book, not that we couldn't sell it, but that we might not be able to guarantee its distribution to those persons and in those places where it was most needed, if her work was to be effective and accomplish reform. She got the point right away, and whereas I only suggested that she send it to the leading stockholders in the mill, she decided that it must go to all of them. Five hundred."

"Well, well. Congratulations. At first I thought you had perpetrated a fraud on the poor lady, but as a matter of fact you've done the best thing in the world for her, if her book is to be more than somebody's idle reading. Peddlebook, you're elected first super-salesman."

"Thank you," said Peddlebook, "and do you suppose I could have a super-salesman's salary, too?"

Doublespread grinned, and guessed he could.

Travelers Talk—

E. S. Fowkes—
“Les Canadiens”

HURD WHITNEY

of William Morrow & Co.

HE IS CALLED “Guy” because, I suppose, his name is Fowkes—though the gentleman whose abortive attempt to blow up Parliament has given the British a November holiday spelled it with an “a”.

Guy came into the publishing picture via the Talbot Press of Dublin, presided over then, as now, by that man who has done so much for the literature of Ireland—W. G. Lyon. Several years ago Mr. Lyon paid a visit to Canada and, on being welcomed by Guy, figuratively tendered the latter a pat on the pate by calling him “one of my boys.” Guy was over forty then, is forty-five now but doesn’t look it.

Twenty-two years ago he emigrated to Canada, which makes him an American though born in Ireland and educated in England and on the Continent. It was pretty much of a toss-up whether to come to the States or the Dominion, but there was an opening with the Macmillan Company of Canada to travel the principal cities from coast to coast, and the opportunity to see the country looked good, from Allen & Connolly in Halifax to Ireland & Allan in Vancouver, and in between, Tyrrell and Britnell and Upper Canada Tract Society of Toronto; Hope, Thorburn & Abbott and Jarvis of Ottawa; Burton’s Foster Brown & Son and Montreal Book Room of Montreal; Evoy and Angus in Quebec; Colpitts of Moncton; Nelson of St. John; R. Duncan Co. and Cloke of Hamilton; Holmes of London; Copeland of Windsor; Uglow of Kingston; Langs in Winnipeg; Regina Bookshop, Parrott, and the Saskatoon News Agency in Saskatoon; Adam Esch in Edmonton; Osborne and Young in Calgary; Victoria Book in Victoria. Also the large department stores of T. Eaton Co., Robert Simpson Co., Henry Morgan Company, the Hudson’s Bay Co., and the Spensers; the Toronto News Company; and The Ryerson Press in Toronto with its library department and retail theological department.

The names roll off the tongue.

Later he became connected with Copp-Clark, the jobbers, permitting semi-annual trips to New York to interview publishers. On these trips he seemed, superficially, like a kid at Coney Island. He saw the shows and jovially made the rounds. He never lacked for company. Wherever he went he had a good time. However, in his business relationships he didn’t pass a bet.

So when Charles Scribner’s Sons and the H. C. Kinsey Company of New York decided to change their policy of maintaining stock in a Canadian depository, and instead to ship the Dominion’s orders directly from New York, they secured to represent them the capable and experienced Fowkes. For the past year he has been successfully handling these lines everywhere in Canada. Started somewhat in the nature of an experiment, the new idea is liked by the trade and the libraries.

Guy has played cricket, tennis and golf, can ride and drive and has done quite a bit of hunting and fishing for moose and muskellunge. He has yet to smoke, but has all the other virtues. He is in the publishing business, he says, because it has a fascination all its own. That he has not made a million dollars at it does not disturb him. He is happy selling books and playing around with such fine sportsmen as Frank Packard, Bob Davis, and Jimmy McLarnin, the boxer, and a score of others among the Canadian trade.

The "P. W." is a "Traveler" Too

Weekly to the desks, offices, and sales floors of booksellers and book distributors the American Booktrade Journal carries its samples of new books and new ideas; its enthusiasms, stories and good wishes. The great family of the trade turns regularly to its familiar covers and follows through its pages toward common and united tasks.

Booksellers' clerks and library assistants may buy the "P. W." at special rate of $3.00 per year—if "store" has one regular rate subscription

THIS LIST aims to be a complete and accurate record of American book publication. Publishers should send copies of all books promptly for annotation and entry, and the receipt of advance copies insures record simultaneous with publication. The annotations are descriptive, not critical; intended to place, not to judge the books. Pamphlet material and books of lesser trade interest are listed in smaller type.

The entry is transcribed from the title-page when the book is sent for record. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request, in which case the word "apply" is used. When not specified the binding is "cloth."

Imprint date or copyright date is always stated, except when imprint date and copyright date agree and are of the current year, in which case only "c" is used. No ascertainable date is designated thus: [n. d.]

Sizes are indicated as follows: F (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q (4to: under 30 cm.); O (8vo: 25 cm.); D (12mo: 20cm.); S (16 mo: 17½ cm.); T (24mo: 15 cm.); sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow.

★ indicates a translation from a foreign language, a key used at the request of the International Institute of Intellectual Cooperation of the League of Nations.

OLD & RARE BOOKS

FREDERICK M. HOPKINS

EVERY WEEK of the new year is bringing us fresh evidence of business recovery. The London booksellers are reporting larger catalog sales in America, and its auction houses are getting more bids through the mails. The volume of auction business here is increasing, and prices are firmer for outstanding rarities, and even good miscellaneous books of moderate rarity are more in demand at better prices than they were last year. The improvement is being felt in all sections, in all kinds of bookshops, rare books making the most encouraging records. But there is one thing, let us hope, that we shall not see and that is the boom of 1929, when a book was worth anything that it would bring, regardless of records or reason. When such times come again we may look for another collapse. The demand for rarities is now based upon careful appraisals and conservative buying. This is as it should be. Recovery on this basis means sound business.

OF THE MANY EDITORIALS written on the centenary of the death of Charles Lamb, which occurred on December 27th, that we have read, the following, from "Elia's Centenary," an editorial in The New York Sun, will please Lamb collectors most: "For those who read him today, and they are many, Lamb is never to be considered as passing away, for with all of their bookishness and quaintness of style the 'Essays of Elia' and his letters and criticisms abound with life. What inspiration may be drawn from the spirit of Elia, indeed, by those who discuss with wrinkled brow today the problem of leisure! It has been truly said that Lamb showed his contemporaries how to combine business with culture. To one whose humor survived great personal tragedy, a social or economic depression could have no dread. This does not imply that he sought to escape from his times, to withdraw into his library to scan the texts of old plays. While leisure gave him the time for such scholarly research and pleasurable reading as he desired, it also helped nourish the habit of observing the life about him and to record its delights. He wrote to Wordsworth that he had passed all his days in London, and that the wonder of its sights 'impels me into night walks about her crowded streets, and I often shed tears in the motley Strand from the fullness of joy at much life.' So may many generations of readers weep at their good fortune that such a lovable spirit communicated, in a form that survives intact, his fancies, his wit, his sentiment and wisdom, replete with the life that his times knew."

THE CLOSE INTER-RELATIONSHIP between the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" was the central idea of an exhibition in the R. C. A. Building, Rockefeller Center, beginning January 4th and lasting nearly two weeks, and attracted a great deal of attention. Current editions of "Science and Health" and other writings of Mrs. Eddy, including the "Manual of the Mother Church," and many ancient and modern editions of the Bible, published by the Oxford University Press, were the chief features of the exhibit. Among the interesting lots loaned by the University Press were a copy of the "Vinegar" Bible, published by John Baskett, London, 1716, in which a headline in Luke refers to the parable of the "vinegar," instead of the parable of the vineyard. The attempt was made to call in the entire edition on account of the error. Other lots included a facsimile edition of a King James version of the Bible published in 1611, a beautiful edition of the Greek New Testament published at Oxford in 1703, and a copy of the miniature Bible, one of the smallest books in the world, measuring $1\frac{3}{4}$ inches by $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY announces the gift from Mrs. David Haas in memory of her brother, Leo Oppenheimer, of four autograph letters written by Lord Macauley to Henry S. Randall of New York between the years 1857 and 1859. One of them found its way almost immediately into print in the columns of the Southern Literary Messenger, of which Edgar Allan Poe was at one time editor. In this letter Lord Macauley characterizes the Federal Constitution as "all sail and no anchor," after having remarked: "I have long been convinced that institutions purely democratic must, sooner or later, destroy liberty, or civilization, or both." Other quotations from these letters appeared from time to time, creating newspaper controversy in the New York press, and in The Times and The Star of London. It was difficult to locate the entire text of the letters themselves until Mr. Oppenheimer permitted the library to print the text from his originals under the title, "What Did Macauley Say About America?"

FIRST EDITIONS of American and English authors, private press books, and Americana, the library formed by Abraham Goldsmith; books, autographs and mementoes from the James Whitcomb Riley Homestead; selections from the collections of George B. Thummel and Jahu Dewitt Miller and other properties, will be dispersed by the American Art Association Anderson Galleries, Inc., in three sessions on February 7th and 8th. This sale of 605 lots has much choice moderate-priced material that the discriminating collector will be glad to own, including publications of the Bibliophile Society, Doves Press, Grolier Club, Kelmscott Press, Merrymount Press, Riverside Press Special Editions, books designed by Bruce Rogers; first editions of Burroughs, Mark Twain, Dickens, Eugene Field, Hearn, Howells, Riley, Thackeray and others. There are many association items with strong appeal.

AFTER PASSING THROUGH the hands of six different publishers in eight years, the series of facsimile productions known as the "English Replicas" has been definitely taken over by a seventh—the Facsimile Text Society, whose publication work is done by the Columbia University Press, of this city. The "Replicas" were first distributed in this country by Payson & Clarke and then by Brewer, Warren & Putnam, of this city. The Facsimile Text Society took them over from Robert O. Ballou, also of this city. The society has already made available eight of these volumes and this month is publishing seven more. These are: John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"; John Blake's "Minor Sketches"; John Milton's "Areopagitica"; John Donne's "The First and Second Anniversaries"; John Keats's "Poems," 1817; and Oliver Goldsmith's "The Deserted Village."

THE QUESTION has been asked again and again, "Would not William Morris have done better to accept the machine and insure the continuance of beauty by suiting his theory of design to mechanical process?" This identical question is answered in Gerald H. Crow's "William Morris, Designer," just published. "Had he cared solely, or even mainly, for beauty, it might have been so. But, believing beauty to be the product not of the effort of designing, but of the happy toil of executing, he was not free to do so, even if he could have sacrificed the operative's happiness to the designer's." This is a satisfactory answer.

IN THE LAST CATALOG issued by Bernard Quaritch, Ltd., of London, the original manuscript of Bulwer Lytton's "The Last Days of Pompeii," entirely in the handwriting of the author, written on 962 pages, bound in 3 vols., 4to, containing 330, 334 and 298 pages, respectively, in half crimson morocco, marbled paper sides, gilt backs, edges untouched, is offered for £1,250.

THE INTERNATIONAL DIRECTORY of Antiquarian Booksellers for 1935 has been issued by Straubing & Müller, Weimar. This directory is divided into three sections, first, an alphabetical list of old and rare book dealers of all countries, second, a similar list classified by country and then by city, and finally, a list classified under subjects of special interest. The directory includes American rare book dealers as well as those of other countries. The price is R.M. 9.50.

ONE HUNDRED and ninety sheets of a second century manuscript of the Bible were discovered in a Cairo bookshop by a director of the German archaeological institute there. The sheets, which had been discovered, it was learned, in an earthen jar on the site of an old monastery, do not include the entire Bible but the Gospel of St. Matthew and St. Paul's Epistles are complete, and there are fragments of the Old Testament. Several ancient Greek philosophical works, hitherto believed lost, were also found. Special interest was attached to the fact that the work was in the form of a book rather than a scroll and this was held to indicate that Christians of the second century were acquainted with the form of a book.

A NEW BIOGRAPHY of Edgar Allan Poe by Una Pope-Hennessy, published by Macmillan, has been receiving many favorable notices and deserves them. The London Times says that her "human sympathy is of a fine quality" and this has enabled her to see the problems of Poe's life from an angle that has frequently been overlooked. This new biographer says "Life was always against him and always forcing him to capitalize cheap achievement." Poe had to keep himself and two women alive by free-lance journalism, the returns from which were small, slow and uncertain, and in which there was prodigious competition in "cheap achievement." As The Times says, "That was a grim occupation; and if one allows oneself to realize it fully, the wonder is not that there is a large proportion of quackery and 'fudge' in Poe's work but that the element is not much larger." Edgar Allan Poe has been considerably treated by his later biographers, and if his new biographer adds little that is new to the work of her predecessors, she writes with a sympathetic understanding that will appeal to Poe collectors, for, from the first, they have had a friendly understanding that has generally been lacking among scholars and authors.

FIFTY THOUSAND ENGINEERS of all nations annually use the Engineering Societies Library, 29 West 39th Street, according to a recent report of its director. Comprising 150,000 volumes, it is the largest strictly engineering library in this country. It provides service to engineers all over the world. Whether in the Congo, Soviet Russia, the Amazon jungle or Australia, an engineer can send for special articles, books or research data on his particular problem. A wide variety of requests is received daily from remote regions. During a year's time, inquiries come from forty-eight states and more than thirty foreign countries. In addition to answering inquiries by letter, cable, wire, telephone and air mail, it translates technical articles and pamphlets into many languages. In a single year more than 46,000 photoprints were made in response to orders. A great collection of very rare material in its special field is available for an engineer at short notice wherever he may be located if he can make it clear what he wants.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY of Ellen Glasgow is being prepared by Laura Colvin, 129 Richmond Road, Williamsburg, Va., who would like to hear from anyone who has been working on the same project. The bibliography covers Miss Glasgow's printed works, material about her, both critical and biographical, and a list of portraits.

J. M. HONE, of the Kildare Street Club, Dublin, Ireland, is preparing the life and letters of the late George Moore for publication in 1935. He is anxious to obtain from individuals in America who have been in correspondence with Mr. Moore in the past either the use of the originals or copies of his correspondence with them. If the originals are sent on, they will be carefully protected and returned to their owners when Mr. Hone is finished with them.

OF ALL THE PLATES in the American Antiquarian Society's collection of 30,000 bookplates, those of Paul Revere are unquestionably of most outstanding importance both because of their commercial value, and because they represent the work of America's most interesting early engraver. And what adds to the interest and importance of the society's collection is the fact that it is the only one that contains all the plates that Revere is known to have engraved. The Revere plates and the men for whom they were created are a distinguished company. Epes Sargent of Gloucester, William Wetmore and David Greene of Boston, and Gardiner Chandler of Worcester, these four bear the Revere signature. The plates of Perez Morton, Andrew Oliver of Boston, Isaiah Thomas of Worcester, and Revere's own, are unsigned, but positively Revere's, exhibiting under scrutiny the same characteristic details. Revere's so-called lion bookplate, although itself very rare, is the better known of the two he used. It was evidently inspired by the coat of arms of his French de Rivoire family, although he had departed freely from it. Its motto is translated, "I fight for my country." The Antiquarian's lion plate was found in a copy of Hugh Latimer's "Sermons," published in London in 1758. The Revere bookplate in Chippendale design was long unknown, the lion plate having been supposed to be the only style used by Revere himself. The discovery of this single other plate in the Chippendale form sets its value high. It displays similar arms within such mantling as is characteristic of the artist's other Chippendale designs. It is, however, damaged at the base, so that only the tops of two of the name letters are visible, but these coincide exactly in form with Revere's own signature.

The Weekly Book Exchange

How to use Books Wanted and Books For Sale

TERMS: "Books Wanted" and "Books for Sale." 15c. a line. No charge for address.

The first-named is for booksellers, publishers and libraries only; the second is open to individuals also.

Both departments are for subscribers' use only.

All other classifications 20c. a line. Bills rendered monthly.

Write plainly on one side of paper. The Weekly is not responsible for typographical errors. Illegible "wants" ignored. Each title must begin on a separate line except grouped titles by one author. Objectionable books excluded when noted. If books wanted were originally published in a foreign language, state whether original or translation is desired.

In answering state edition, condition and price including transportation.

Give your name and address.

Credit responsibility of advertisers is not guaranteed but space in the columns will be denied to dealers who misuse it. Pay for your purchases promptly to preserve credit standing. Copy closes Monday noon.
